FOUR NAZIS DOWNED

LONDON (AP)—Four German raiders were brought down to night over Britain, thus raising to 16 the number shot down since nightfall yesterday.

Only a few bombs were dropped on British soil during the day, the communiqué said, and they caused "no casualties and little damage."

Calais Drome Blasted

LONDON (CP)—British fighters and bombers attacked a German-occupied airdrome at Calais this afternoon, the Air Ministry announced tonight.

ASCAP Fined $5,000

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Federal Judge F. Ryan Duffy this afternoon fined the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers $5,000 after it had entered a plea of nolo contendere to a charge of violating federal anti-trust laws.

Rhodes Pounded

CAIRO (AP)—British bombers carried out a heavy attack on airdromes on the Italian island of Rhodes, it was announced tonight. Rhodes is on the Dodecanese group in the eastern Mediterranean.

Jap Ersatz Cloth

VANCOUVER (CP)—A letter received here from Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Vichert of Vancouver, Baptist missionaries in Sikiang province, western China, declares the Japanese are suffering a shortage of "essential food products" and other materials, and are making a cloth substitute from leaves which will not stand washing.

H.M.S. Manistee Sunk

LONDON (CP)—The Admiralty issued this communiqué tonight:

"The board of the Admiralty regrets to announce H.M.S. Manistee (Lt.-Cmdr. E. H. Smith, R.N.R.), an auxiliary vessel of the Royal Navy has been sunk. Next of kin of the casualties have been informed."

Jugoslav Talks

BELGRADE (AP)—Premier Dragisa Cvetkovic conferred for hours today with Regent Prince Paul, apparently in discussion of the course Jugoslavia will follow on demands that she join the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo axis, it was learned tonight.

Earlier the premier had talked with Croatian leader, Vice-Premier Vladimir Macek.

BRITAIN TO RECEIVE 30 TORPEDO BOATS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional sources said today it is virtually definite that 30 United States "mosquito fleet" torpedo boats would be transferred to Britain in the near future and some legislators said they had heard reports some of the smaller units of the Coast Guard also might be transferred.

The House naval committee members reiterated destroyers and other small naval craft might be turned over to Britain as fast as new replacements are delivered to the fleet. They pointed out 13 destroyers are scheduled to be commissioned between now and July 1 and that might release an equal number of over-age destroyers.

Italian Sub Sunk

ATHENS (AP)—The marine ministry said today the Greek destroyer Psara, on convoy duty in the Aegean Sea, had sunk an enemy submarine which attempted to sink ships in the convoy.

3 Years for Soldier

WINCHESTER, Eng. (CP)—Sergeant Ralph Roswell Bishop, 39, of the Canadian army, was sentenced to three years' imprisonment at the Hampshire assizes today for robbing with violence a fellow Canadian, Pte. James Stanley Finn of the Royal Canadian Artillery.

Finn testified he had treated Bishop and a Canadian captain at an alderhot hotel, and later was struck down and robbed as he entered the barracks.

Training Over, R.A.F. Begins Devastating Bombing of Enemy Key Points

For some time the R.A.F. has been developing new types of planes, bombs and technique and all it was waiting for was the signing of the Lease-Lend Bill by President Franklin Roosevelt to make sure there would be no halt in the flow of planes to replace those which would unquestionably be lost on raids. These pictures show certain stages of the night training of bombing plane crews. Extreme left, two of the men on whose actions depend the safety of the night flight. The control officer at the left is signalling for the night plane to come into the airdrome. The man at the right is operating the glide path indicator to light the way in for the big "owl" plane. Centre, two night flying trainees are shown silhouetted in the light of a signal flare as they board their night bomber for the take-off. Above, like a ghost ship, a big bomber taxis to a stop after a night flight.

The War Today

By GUY RHODES

AXIS DISTURBED

The speed with which the United States appears willing to proceed with a vast program under the newly-signed Lease-Lend Bill to aid the democracies seems to have thrown the Axis into a considerable state of apprehension.

Combined with the lease-lend factor as a brewer of misgiving were hints from London that Britain had evolved a new anti-aircraft defence, reports from Africa of new successes by British forces, and Greek reports of the repulse with huge losses of an Italian counter-attack, apparently spurred by Mussolini himself.

The Axis press cried out violently against President Roosevelt's action in asking for $7,000,000,000 to finance the lease-lend program, accusing the United States of all kinds of things. The nearest of these was a German assertion that, in reality, the United States knew Britain would be defeated, but stood ready to pick up the pieces, supplant the British Commonwealth, and seek to cheat the Axis out of the fruits of victory.

JAPAN

The Japanese press indicated the government which calls the tune to which it pipes believes the United States program will result in a considerable increase in American aid to China.

The Germans said passage of the bill had been anticipated and therefore the final act was of no consequence to them. They also declared at the same time that its effects would be offset by a scheme which would make Russia the arsenal of the Axis. Their argument was that German factories in Russia would be protected by Russian neutrality.

MEANS WHAT?

If this statement was anything more than Nazi hot air it meant one or two things: It was either an unintentional admission that British air raids on German war industries are having a telling effect, or that Germany is assured Russia will remain neutral—or both.

The Italian press, after a two-day tirade of abuse, most of which was directed personally against Mr. Roosevelt, fell back on the argument that the United States would not be able to provide Britain with enough material to influence the outcome of the conflict.

New Drydocks

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives appropriations committee introduced a naval supply bill today including $22,757,000 for improvement and expansion of shore facilities on the north Pacific and Alaska coasts of the United States.

In addition to $3,000,000 for the Puget Sound, Wash., navy yard, the bill carries $17,667,000 for naval air stations and $2,080,000 for other projects from Tongue Point, Ore., north.

These items had been requested by Rear-Admiral Ben Mearns, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, in testimony before a subcommittee.

"We are building two battleship drydocks there, (Puget Sound navy yard) he said. "One is completed and one is about 63 per cent completed. There is a supporting expansion of the shops to go with these docks."

7 AVIATORS KILLED IN ONTARIO

BONDHEAD, Ont. (CP)—Seven men were believed to have died in the wreckage of two big bombing planes which touched wings or tails in the air and plummeted to the ground on a farm just north of this village this afternoon.

Bondhead is 35 miles north of Toronto.

The machines struck the ground with terrific force and resident of this village said one of the planes apparently exploded when it hit.

(At the Camp Borden base of the R.C.A.F. officials said they had "assisted" at a crash, but refused other details except that the planes were not from Camp Borden. They said the planes were believed to be from the Royal Air Force training base at Port Albert.)

REMOVED BODIES

Ted Hitwell, owner of a grocery store here, said he heard the planes crash into the ground a half a mile away. He rushed to the scene and helped remove two bodies from the wreckage.

He said five men were in one plane and four in the other.

Hitwell said he helped take two men from the wreckage alive, and they were rushed to the hospital at Barrie.

One of the two was able to talk and told Hitwell his name was John Flowers and that he was a radio operator and his plane was from Goderich.

Flowers could not say how the crash occurred, Hitwell added.

NO TIME TO JUMP

Hitwell said the planes were flying low when they touched and none of the men had a chance to jump. The machines spun around in the air several times before they crashed, landing with their wheels up in the air.

There was no fire, Hitwell said. Wreckage from the machines was strewn for hundreds of yards from where they fell, a quarter of a mile from each other.

As soon as word had been relayed to Camp Borden, ambulances and airmen were brought to the scene. Airmen formed a cordon around the shattered machines to keep villagers away.

Smashing R.A.F. Raids Launch Offensive Against Germany

LONDON (CP)—Swarming over the continent from Boulogne to Berlin and from the Low Countries to Norway, the Royal Air Force has launched its greatest offensive of the war.

British planes sped across the English Channel this afternoon, following up the "very successful" raids made yesterday and last night on Berlin, industrial plants at Bremen, naval shipbuilding yards at Hamburg, airdromes in Norway and the Netherlands, docks at Boulogne and shipping at Ijmuiden, the Netherlands, and at Ostend, Belgium.

With new and more powerful bombers thrown into the assault, a well-placed source declared today that as a result of passage of the United States British Aid Bill, "we now are able to launch a really offensive war."

Not Worrying Now About Replacements

Britain, he added, is in a position to open up with everything she has because she does not have to worry about where she is to get more war equipment or how she is going to pay for it.

"We were not able to risk exhausting our reserves before because we had quite frankly reached the point where we just didn't have the money for replacing on a cash-and-carry basis," the informant added. "It kept us pennilessly defensive."

Big flights of United States-made Consolidated and four-motored Boeing bombers to help British Stirlings and Avro-Manchesters in heavy long-range bombing, a well-placed source said, would enable the R.A.F. to spread its attacking area.

This spread, he said, besides increasing effectiveness of the raids, is expected also to force the Germans to disperse their anti-aircraft defences.

Heretofore the Nazis were able to concentrate their guns—and the informant said they had many more than Britain, especially at first—around points liable to be attacked.

The British bomber offensive against Germany's home front was viewed today by observers as strengthening indirectly the British Middle East forces.

Several "new and more powerful" types of planes, said the communiqué, were used in the attack on Berlin—first raid on the German capital since Dec. 20.

Many fires In Nazi Capital

Large fires were started in Berlin by the raiders. The fires were "especially numerous in the neighborhood of railway yards."

At Bremen direct hits were scored on "a target of great importance" in the industrial area of the city, and at Hamburg "many fires and explosions" were started in the naval shipyards and the industrial section, which "received special attention."

Large fires were started among docks at Boulogne, one of the French Channel coast.

Five British planes were lost in these smashing blows, which the Air Ministry itself described as "the heaviest attack yet made on Germany." One Nazi fighter was destroyed while attempting to intercept R.A.F. attackers.

"The attacks last night extended from Berlin to Boulogne," the official announcement said. "They were carried out by the light of the moon and were very successful.

"In addition to the older type of aircraft of the bomber command, several new and more powerful types were again in action and carried very heavy bombs."

The communiqué did not identify the new types, but observers said they may have included bombers of the new four-motored bombers from the U.S. which have been flown across the Atlantic.

The Schiphol Airdrome, near Amsterdam, was also attacked, along with other targets in north-west Germany and the Low Countries.

Big Supply Ship, Destroyer Hit

A large supply ship at anchor in the Netherlands harbor of Ijmuiden and other vessels at Ostend and an airdrome in Norway were among the R.A.F.'s targets.

Off Jutland the stern of an enemy destroyer was hit by a torpedo from a plane.

Fair weather sped the raiders on the 1,000-mile round trip which ended the immunity from aerial attack which the German capital has enjoyed for 82 long winter nights.

The first brief announcement of the raid did not specify how many planes participated, but the official characterization of the raid as the "heaviest" yet attempted over Germany indicated a considerable number was engaged and was following by the later communiqué.

New Barrage On Shotgun Pattern

Britain's own night fighters are using new weapons in defensive warfare and her barrages are operated on a shotgun system of concentrating a pattern of shells in heavy co-ordinating fire.

There also is a new balloon barrage described as "lethal."

(See story of last night's raids on England on Page 3).

Hungarian Funds 'Frozen' in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt today "froze" all funds of Hungary in the United States and State Secretary Hull explained Hungary is considered to be under German domination.

Hull said the United States put Hungary in the same category as Rumania and other countries against which freezing orders have been issued.

Radioed Hitler

STOCKHOLM (AP)—The Norwegian Telegram Bureau said today the Norwegian and British naval forces which raided the Lofoten Islands of Norway's northern coast March 4 wirelessly Hitler from the islands that they were "very disappointed at the poor reception we have had here from the German forces."

"All of us had hoped you would keep your promises made in recent speeches that wherever Allied forces landed on the continent of Europe they would be met by strong German forces eager to throw them out again," the bureau quoted the message.

Nazi Exaggeration

LONDON (CP)—Military circles said today it was possible Germany had parts of three divisions in Libya.

The Germans, they asserted, "as a part of the war of nerves, have exaggerated the number they were able to get across" the Mediterranean.

Fire on Barracks From 50 Feet

"During these attacks one of our aircraft extinguished searchlights by machine gun fire and shot up a military barracks from a height of 50 feet.

"One Messerschmitt 110 which attempted to interfere with these operations was shot down."

Hamburg, a city of 1,133,000 situated on the Elbe River 177 miles northwest of Berlin, has been raided repeatedly during the winter by the R.A.F., which has seen heavy damage to the port area. Before the war more overseas trade passed through that city than through any other German port.

Bremen, rated second in importance to Hamburg as a maritime shipping centre, also has been bombed repeatedly. The city, which has a population of about 250,000, is located about 50 miles southwest of Hamburg on the Weser River.

Nazi Step Up Propaganda

BERLIN (AP)—D.N.B., German news and propaganda agency, today quoted Nazi pilots returning from last night's raid on the Liverpool area that destruction on the Merseyside "exceeded that at Coventry."

"Hell broke loose on the Mersey," the agency quoted one pilot as saying. He described an "ocean of flames" visible 25 minutes' flight from the scene.

(A British communiqué said "the damage and casualties bore no relation to the scale of the attack and very little was achieved beyond serious damage to a number of private houses." Observers said the German statement may have been issued as a propaganda attempt to offset the violence and success of the British raids on Berlin and other Nazi centres last night.)

Enemy Admits Raids Widespread

Today's communiqué from the German high command said:

"The enemy dropped explosive and incendiary bombs last night in a greater number of towns of the northern coastal area of Germany, as well as on the Reich's capital. A number of buildings in the residential quarter, including churches and hospitals, were damaged. Immateral damage was inflicted on industrial plants. A number of civilians were killed or injured. Ten of the attacking planes were shot down by night chasers and anti-aircraft batteries.

"In addition, the enemy lost three planes in daylight air fights. Six of our own planes were missing."

(Nine German bombers were destroyed over Britain during the night.)

$1,533,567,102 Voted

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Senate sent a $1,533,567,102 defence appropriations bill to President Roosevelt for his signature today after several Senators had voiced criticism of the bill's lack of a provision setting up a commission to locate defence factories.

The provision was eliminated by a joint conference committee assigned to the task of composing differences in the Senate and House versions of the measure.

Bill to House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Speaker Sam Rayburn told his press conference today it was planned to have the $7,000,000,000 British aid appropriation bill ready for the House of Representatives next Tuesday, and efforts would be made to pass it the same day.

A short time before the House appropriations subcommittee was to start brief, secret hearings on the measure, acting chairman Woodrum (Democrat, Virginia) told newsmen he hoped to conclude the testimony late tomorrow.

"The time has come for action," the Virginian said. "There's been enough talk."

Purse Snatchers Busy

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plagued by an epidemic of purse snatchings, police here are suggesting women start carrying money in the tops of their stockings again.

Other suggestions to women are that they don't walk the streets at night, take along a male escort, or leave their purses at home if they do go out alone.

RAINS RETURN

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The rains are back again, after a few days of sunshine, setting new storm records for southern California.

Rain which set in yesterday and continued today established a 51-year record in Los Angeles with a total precipitation for the season starting July 1, 1940, of 26.31 inches. During the season of 1889-90, the total rainfall was 34.84 inches, eclipsed only by the 38.18 inches which fell in 1883-84.

The storm was general over southern California. A bus slid from wet pavement against a telephone pole and into an orange grove on Ontario, injuring seven passengers, one—Ralph Portilla, 22, of Greeley, Colo., critically.

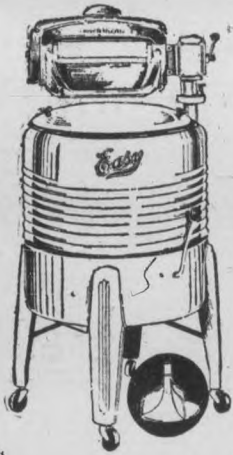

A body was sighted in the surf at Redondo Beach. It was believed that of a boy washed from the breakwater a week ago.

International drama of world-wide import was made a reality when this picture was taken as President Roosevelt signed the much-fought Lease-Lend Bill, with its sweeping powers to him for aiding Great Britain.

B.C. Disputes Ottawa Demand for Debt

The Dominion government is pressing British Columbia for payment of treasury bills totaling more than $34,000,000, but the province is disputing part of the debt because it was borrowed for unemployment relief which the province claims should always have been a national responsibility.

This was revealed today in despatches from the federal capital and in a statement issued in Vancouver by Premier Pattullo. Premier Pattullo declared that nearly $25,000,000 of the total amount was for unemployment relief, and added "we do not recognize that the Dominion has a valid claim upon the province in respect of these unemployment relief monies."

The balance covered advances for purposes other than relief. Terms or method of repayment were not known here. "We have always taken the attitude that unemployment relief is essentially the responsibility of the Dominion government," said the Premier.

PAID INTEREST
"It is true that we have been paying interest on these treasury bills to the Dominion government, but always in anticipation of final adjustment of accounts between the Dominion and the province, and it had not been our intention to press the matter until conclusion of the war."

"Recently the Dominion, without previous consultation with us, advised us that we should be expected to meet the costs of direct relief without contribution from the Dominion government. The amount of the Dominion contribution is approximately $15,000,000 for the current year. We have undertaken to meet these additional costs on account of the war and in anticipation of adjustment of the whole account on conclusion of the war."

The direct relief payments were on a basis of 40 per cent by the Dominion, 40 per cent by the province and 20 per cent by the municipalities. When the Dominion decided it could no longer contribute 40 per cent of the costs, the British Columbia government absorbed the amount. "It has nothing more to say at the present time any more than that we do not recognize that the Dominion has a valid claim upon the province in respect of these unemployment relief monies."

A special dispatch to the Times from its Ottawa correspondent says the federal government presumably will ask other provinces to repay the amounts they have borrowed up to the limit of their capacity to pay.

The dispatch adds: "Premier Pattullo's statement that before another conference is held the Dominion should consult with individual provinces in a spirit of give and take reached Ottawa at a somewhat psychological moment. The Dominion has already started to consult with British Columbia on the question of federal loans in a spirit of give and take. The Dominion, desperate for money to carry on the war, wants to take some of British Columbia's enormous revenues to satisfy a legal debt."

IN TREASURY BILLS
The province's total indebtedness to the Dominion government is $34,775,653. It is all secured in one-year and six months' treasury bills maturing at various times.

The money was borrowed from time to time since 1930. Provincial leaders have said on various occasions that since the money was borrowed to pay for unemployment, which should have been a Dominion responsibility, discussions would be needed on whether or not the money should be repaid in whole or in part. No repayments have been made yet, but the province has been paying interest at the rate of 3 per cent.

Conjecture arose today on what methods the Dominion might take to collect the money if the province refuses to pay. While ordinary legal methods of enforcing collection of the debt might not be possible, it was noted the Dominion makes subsidy payments to the province each year of $1,624,561, which could be withheld to offset part of it.

Nazi Ship Claims

BERLIN (AP)—The Nazi commentary Dienst Aus Deutschland claimed today since the beginning of the war German armed forces have sunk more than 9,000,000 tons of British shipping space. (British admiralty figures place the total of British, Allied and neutral shipping sunk in the vicinity of 5,000,000 tons.)

The commentary claimed the total British tonnage launched in 1938 and 1939 did not reach the total sunk by the Germans in the four months of "the winter pause."

4th Death Caused By Istanbul Bombing

Istanbul (AP)—Teresa Armstrong, 23-year-old stenographer of the recently-closed British legation in Sofia, died early today.

Her death brought to four the number killed in the suitcase bomb attempt on the life of George W. Rendel, former British minister to Bulgaria.

Miss Armstrong was so extensively injured in the explosion in the Pera Palace Hotel that both her legs had to be amputated.

972 Planes Made In U.S. in Month

WASHINGTON (AP)—Airplane manufacturers delivered 972 planes during February, a decrease of 64 from the January total.

William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management, announced the figures today and said that of the February deliveries, 879 planes went to Britain and to the United States army and navy.

The decline in production was attributed by O.P.M. officials to the smaller number of working days in February than in January.

British Mop Up in Somaliland

CAIRO (AP)—Mopping up in Italian Somaliland by British forces "continues in all sectors," the Middle East command announced today.

A Royal Air Force communiqué today said:

"Eritrea—On March 11, South African aircraft carried out a number of machine-gun attacks against ground targets. Enemy aircraft on the airfield at Asmara, hangars at Decemere and a number of petrol dumps in the area were among the objectives attacked."

"Goods (freight) trains on the Cheren-Asmara line were machine-gunned and damaged."

"Bomber aircraft of the R.A.F. also attacked military objectives at Asaba."

"Malta was raided during the night of March 11-12 and some damage was caused. Although there were no Royal Air Force casualties, a few civilians were killed and wounded.

"From each of these operations under review all our aircraft returned safely."

GAIN BY PATRIOTS

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony (CP)—British headquarters said today it had been confirmed that native Ethiopians fighting on the British side had captured Yavello, oft-bombed Italian strong point about 100 miles inside southwestern Ethiopia.

Mussolini Threatens His Generals

Italians Lose 10,000 in Albania

ATHENS (AP)—Dispatches from the Albanian front today said the large scale offensive presumably ordered by Mussolini himself from field headquarters had failed before powerful Greek resistance.

An earlier report said Mussolini had given his generals until Saturday to "do something."

The Italians, dispirited from the front said, have been unable to gain a single inch of ground and in the last six days they have been placed at more than 10,000, including 2,000 dead. These figures do not cover the 3,500 prisoners listed by the Greeks.

DUCE TRIES PEP-UP

A Greek spokesman said captured Italian officers reported

Mussolini has been in Albania almost a week to bolster the morale of his troops and himself had ordered the recent ferocious series of attacks on the central front, attacks which the Greeks reported smashed over a 12-mile sector in four days of bloody fighting.

The captives, the spokesman added, said Mussolini had told "his generals he would be leaving Saturday, by which date he expects they will do something."

The penalty of failure was not given.

Greek army circles said the accelerated attacks—described as the heaviest of the war and apparently centred around the vital Tepeleni area—cost the Italians heavily in manpower. The spokesman said the battlefield was strewn with dead and wounded Fascist soldiers.

quite clear about the firmness of the people of Ostmark home. "I assured him then I hoped the time would soon come when he could inform himself better. This time has arrived. England got the lesson, and I have not the impression that the firmness of the British brigades was greater than those of the Ostmark battalions in Norway and France."

SOUTH RED SEA STRAIT MINED

LONDON (CP)—An official statement today said:

"The Admiralty gives notice that the small strait of Bab el Mandeb is dangerous to navigation and that all vessels passing between the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden should proceed by way of the large strait. Vessels which disregard this warning do so at their risk and peril."

Closure of the small strait leaves the navy only one channel to watch to prevent any Italian ships in the Red Sea from escaping into the open ocean as the land pressure in Eritrea increases, observers said.

The Admiralty declined to disclose how its forces had blocked the small channel between Perim Island and the Arabian coast, but they probably used mines.

Bab el Mandeb is divided by the British island of Perim. The small strait, to the northeast, is about two miles wide. The large strait ranges from nine to 16 miles in width. Navigators commonly have used the small strait, since it is a shorter and more direct route.

Led Squadron to 70 Victories

Wearing the coveted ribbon of the Distinguished Flying Cross below the wings on his tunic, Wing Commander Ernest McNab of Regina, who led the first Canadian fighter squadron in battle with the Nazis over Britain, is shown as he returned to Canada for new duties. His squadron downed at least 70 German planes and met the full shock of the mass raids on London last September. He was interviewed over the CBC last night.

BODY RECOVERED FROM PLANE WRECK

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Body of Pilot Officer C. Gillard of Vancouver, killed when a Royal Canadian Air Force training plane crashed about 10 miles from Moncton yesterday, was found and brought here today.

The remains were found in the cabin of the crashed ship in the Meadowbrook area of Westmorland County.

L.A.C. D. C. Code, who had been with Gillard, was seriously injured. He has a good chance for recovery.

MARRIED FIVE WEEKS

Gillard's wife, a Vancouver girl whom he married five weeks ago, is residing here.

Code came from Bount, Sask., where his father, W. H. Code, lives.

Three men had been in the plane, L.A.C. J. Patton, Islington, Ont., was able to bail out and escaped uninjured.

Meanwhile, a second R.C.A.F. training ship which crashed at about the same time yesterday was sighted from the air today by pilots of ski-equipped planes.

Only one man, L.A.C. D. A. Williams, 23, had been in that plane. Formerly he lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Williams, at City View, Ont. He was born at Imperial, Sask.

(Yesterday G. P. Barrett of Toronto and W. L. Sparky of British Honduras were killed when two R.C.A.F. planes collided over the city of Saskatoon).

TOM MANN DIES IN ENGLAND

GRASSINGTON, Yorkshire, Eng. (CP)—Tom Mann, veteran British labor leader, died today. He was 84.

Born in a mining district, Mann began work on a farm at the age of nine and two years later went into the pits, where he worked until he was 14. Then he learned to become a journeyman engineer in Birmingham and at the age of 21 settled down in London.

He soon became active in the infant trade union movement, particularly in the Amalgamated Society of Engineers. He joined the Socialist Party and in later years was associated with the Independent Labor Party, the left-wing group of the labor movement. He stood for parliament four times, but was not elected. Mann was prominent in the famous dockers' strike and espoused such Socialist causes as the eight-hour day and the single tax. He visited Russia in 1921 and China in 1927.

U.S. Takes Over British Contracts

WASHINGTON (AP)—A high administration official disclosed today the army and Reconstruction Finance Corporation are negotiating to take over between $300,000,000 and $350,000,000 worth of British war contracts and factories in the United States.

The official, who declined to be quoted by name but spoke to reporters in order, he said, to clear up some misapprehensions about what was happening, said the program "in no way means the British will be relieved of the remainder of their obligations in this country."

He explained the negotiations probably would cut Britain's war obligations, however, between 20 and 25 per cent, indicating total obligations for weapons and other war materials were about $1,500,000,000.

The official added that since the United States, under the Lease-Lend Bill, would provide all new weapons desired by Britain, that country was expected to pay for the remaining contracts placed with American manufacturers before the bill was passed.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, he explained, intended to buy through its subsidiary, the Defence Plant Corporation, British-owned munitions factories in the United States.

EXPECT HIGHER SAVINGS FIGURE

NANAIMO (CP)—G. N. Stacy of Vancouver, war savings organizer for British Columbia, "d members of the Vancouver Island War Savings Committee here last night 40 cents per capita was raised in the province during January."

He said the objective was $1.31 per capita per month, and that it is expected the February figure will be higher than the January collections.

F. C. Grant of Nanaimo reported enthusiastic support for the drive from the Italian colony here. He said Chinese residents were also responding to the appeal.

G. E. Wellburn of Duncan, reported logging camps and mills were not working full time and payroll collections were therefore poor. Mrs. G. Renwick of Port Alberni reported similar difficulty, while J. K. King of Ladysmith said canvassers in his district obtained only $250 per month from a payroll of some $45,000.

No actual estimate of total pledges obtained on Vancouver island was available at the meeting, called by F. E. Winslow of Victoria, chairman of the island War Savings Committee.

9 Nazis Downed In Wide Attack

British Defenders at New Peak Smash Night Raid

LONDON (CP)—British defence forces set a new one-night record by shooting down at least nine German bombers last night in a "large scale" attack centred on Merseyside, important shipping area concentrated at Liverpool.

A communique appeared to hint at a new defensive weapon in stating the German bombers were harassed by fighters, anti-aircraft guns and "other devices" which were described as "very active."

The nature of the "other devices" was not indicated, but they were considered to be something other than barrage balloons.

German raiders over London last night and early today were greeted by a thunderous barrage unlike anything previously heard from the regular anti-aircraft weapons. The noise resembled that of heavy artillery rather than the familiar crack of conventional anti-aircraft guns.

The government compared the raid on the Liverpool area with the heavy assaults directed against Britain last fall but added:

"On this occasion the damage and casualties bore no relation to the scale of the attack and very little was achieved beyond serious damage to a number of private houses."

Wide Area Covered By German Raiders

The German air force took advantage of a full moon and clear weather to range widely over England and in addition to Liverpool struck at London, towns in the Midlands, East Anglia and in the southwest and southeast.

The Air Ministry news service said night fighters were known to have downed five of the nine German bombers bagged last night and added they "probably destroyed several more."

"The deadliness of our night fighters in combat is proved by the fact that in most cases they shot the raiders down in flames with only one burst from their guns," the news service said.

Twin-engine Bristol Beaufort fighters were credited with two, a Hurricane with one and Defiants of a squadron said to have bagged 37 German planes in one day over Dunkerque without loss were credited with two more.

Toll Highest Yet By Defence Units

The total of nine shot down topped the best previous mark of seven—achieved twice before, last Tuesday night and on June 18, 1940, when night bombing of Britain began.

London had three alarms during the night. Light damage and few casualties were reported in the capital.

Two crewmen of downed German bombers were captured, one surrendering to a waiting cotager when he parachuted to earth.

It was estimated that about 200 German planes were over England during the night. Since nine bombers were downed it made the proportion of raiders shot down about one in 20 compared with the previous estimated top of one out of 30.

Informed sources said that when this proportion reached one out of 10 the night bomber menace would be whipped.

Discussing Britain's new defensive weapons, military sources said new "gadgets" to fight night bombers were being gradually introduced into the defences, and were increasingly effective.

A-A Crews Show Increased Skill

They said the skill of the anti-aircraft gun crews also was improving steadily, but added that Britain last night did not suddenly produce "out of the hat" a new method for bringing down raiders.

The R.A.F.'s score was further increased when it was officially announced today that "two enemy aircraft Messerschmitt 109's were shot down near the southeast coast" in a dawn encounter.

Informed sources said Britain is prepared to fill the skies with night fighting planes.

Raiders who attacked the Liverpool area were said to have been kept at "terrific height" by the defence. They dropped numerous flares and hundreds of incendiaries and high explosive bombs, observers declared. In parts of the city, burned out bombs were found in nearly every street.

One heavy bomb lodged on the roof of a Merseyside school and 250 persons were removed from an adjoining shelter. The bomb exploded a short time later, bringing down the school and nearby property. Policemen and wardens assigned there were missing.

Several auxiliary fire watchers were killed when a heavy bomb burst in the centre of a fire. A number of persons were trapped in the wreckage of a tenement building.

The surprised Phelps opened the packet—inside were 150 £1 notes ($667) and this letter: "For a soldier serving his country."

"Today is my son's birthday. He was killed early in this war and my husband was killed in the last war. The money would have been used as a birthday present for my boy."

Berlin's Heaviest Raid

WHILE ADOLF HITLER WAS CELEBRATING the third anniversary of the Anschluss at Linz—formerly the capital of Upper Austria and the point at which he entered his native land on March 13, 1938—the people of Berlin were probably asking themselves this morning what Hermann Goering really meant when he assured them they would never be worried by the men of the Royal Air Force. Although it is not official Britain's custom to publish details of the work of her valiant sky fighters until after the most meticulous study of all reports is complete, the communiqué issued by the Ministry in London describes last night's raid over the German capital as the heaviest yet launched.

Whether the increase in the number of the R.A.F.'s visits to Germany in recent days may be taken as an indication that substantial arrivals of large bombing planes from the United States have automatically extended the scope of aerial activity over enemy territory, whether there is now a sufficient margin of machines on hand to permit of the bombing of areas not conforming too strictly to the military-objective category—we are thinking of reprisals—or whether this is the beginning of an offensive to remind the German people of the Fuehrer's sadly-dislocated timetable, the progress of events soon should disclose. It would nevertheless seem safe to assume that the scale of this latest attack on Berlin, not to mention new raids on Kiel, Bremerhaven, Bremen and Hamburg, must soon produce an effect on public morale which, after all, has owed much of its sustaining quality to that confident promise of early and complete victory with which the oligarchy at Berlin has systematically dosed the German people.

To what extent Hitler's regimented millions have been informed about the passage of the "Lend-Lease" Bill in Washington we are not permitted to learn. It is sufficient to know, however, that Britain's Ministry of Information proposes to pay special attention to this phase of its propaganda service; one or two pamphleteering raids in quick succession should add considerably to public misgiving at this stage of the war's progress. Even if only a comparatively few Germans are brought to understand the significance of United States policy, not only as it affects Britain's capacity to use the aid it makes available to her, but also because of the nature of the neighboring republic's commitments as the "arsenal of democracy," absence of the long-overdue subjection of the British Isles should cause even the most unimaginative citizen of the Greater Reich seriously to think.

No intelligent German is likely to remain unmoved as he contemplates the visible wreckage in Cologne, Duesseldorf, Hamburg, Berlin, Mannheim, Essen, Muenchen-Gladbach, and in dozens of other communities of great industrial importance to the Reich's whole war machine. And when Mr. Louis P. Lochner, one of the most able correspondents of the Associated Press, tells us that on his return to the Nazi capital from Switzerland last Sunday the first question was about food in the Alpine republic, we get a vivid impression of a willing morale. True, Germans know British cities have been smashed; but that knowledge must be balanced against something which continues to occur to Berlin—a terror Goering emphatically promised its inhabitants they would never experience.

The March Began

THREE YEARS AGO TODAY GERMAN troops marched into Austria. Before the sun had set, Hitler in person had annexed that country to the Third Reich and dissolved its federal state. Europe gasped as the "scales of illusion" fell from the eyes of many in high quarters. British and French statesmen who had watched the unfolding of the Nazi program with growing alarm again appealed for a greater and speedier measure of rearmament. Downing Street and the Quai d'Orsay immediately focussed their thoughts and attention on Czechoslovakia; prospective Gauleiter Konrad Henlein was making headway among the Sudetens.

Consummation of the Anschluss added still more point to the warnings Mr. Churchill had been sounding for more than two years. Alarmed as he was over this new manifestation of Hitler's worthless promises, he felt that policies for the adequate protection of minority rights might yet be adopted in time. But if all the implications of what he called the "Austrian eye-opener" were not intelligently and promptly interpreted, the saving of Europe and the world "from miseries beyond the dreams of Hell" would be little better than a forlorn hope.

Austria's annexation to the Reich naturally was a severe blow to the democracies. It was the familiar cry of Germany, of course, that the state had for its principal objective the rescue of 6,000,000 easy-going Austrians from their "misery" under the Schuschnigg regime. Small wonder even the most unimaginative of Hitler's Reichswehr gasped when he discovered he could obtain whipped cream and all kinds of other delicacies which had disappeared from German menus years before—as Goering expanded his economic "guns-for-butter" formulas within the Reich.

On the day following the completion of this first blueprint of the Greater Reich, the Hamburger Fremdenblatt asked a pertinent question: "Are we aware that we lived through an historic day yesterday, a triumph for the National Socialist outlook, a triumph for the German community of fate?" This was patent to some British statesmen. In the House of Commons Mr. Chamberlain said His Majesty's government was "interested in developments" in Central Europe and warned Germany that the policy of his administration would be to "match force with force." From Berlin—for Hitler was then in his Austrian homeland—Baron von Neurath's rejoinder to the Prime Minister's statement was that "the British government is not within its right in claiming the role of Austria's protector." Another spokesman almost jokingly reminded Britain that her protests came "20 years too late." And Munich came six months afterward!

Certificates For the Thrifty

WORKERS IN THE WAR SAVINGS Certificates campaign have listened patiently to numerous and varied formulas for the financing of Canada's contribution to the British Commonwealth's cause. This is not a new experience in a country at war. There are some in Canada who still talk about inflation and argue that huge extraordinary expenditures should be financed by the issue of blocks of paper money.

It may not be denied, of course, that the issue of fiat money is the easiest way to finance war. But such a method, in the long run, is not only the most costly but also has far-reaching adverse economic and social consequences. It brings in its wake wide increases in commodity prices. Moreover, since it is useful for wages to lag behind an increase in commodity prices, the purchasing power of the laboring people is adversely affected and their standard of living goes down. This is felt particularly by those who are working on a fixed salary, such as government officials, teachers, public utility and bank employees. Furthermore, inflation, in the sense of a sharp rise in commodity prices, means the eventual wiping out of the savings of all people who have government obligations, other bonds, life insurance policies, or bank deposits. In order to protect the purchasing power of their security holdings, these people generally try to liquidate their fixed income bearing obligations and to acquire equities or commodities, thus further feeding the flames of inflation.

It is generally agreed by most orthodox, and even some unorthodox economists, that inflation wipes out the middle class which is the backbone of every country. When this takes place it brings in its wake great economic and social changes. Many social changes, of course, will come after this war. But on all counts it is better to finance an emergency, such as that which now faces Canada, through borrowings and sacrifices on the part of the entire population of the country rather than through the issue of more paper money. Britain has adopted that well-tryed British method; we shall not go wrong by following her example.

Automobile Sales

DURING 1940, THE TOTAL NUMBER OF cars sold in Canada was 14 per cent larger than during 1939. Sales during 1940 amounted to 130,917 units. Of this total, trucks and buses numbered 29,150 units, or an increase of 18 per cent over 1939. The value of these units amounted to $34,300,000, an increase of 19 per cent over 1939. New passenger cars sold during 1940 aggregated 101,767 units, an increase of 13 per cent over the preceding year. Their value was 18.2 per cent higher than during 1939. The large sales of automobiles continued throughout the year and did not slow down during December. It is possible that as a result of the Dominion's war efforts during the present year, Canada may not be able to produce the same number of cars as in 1940. The various raw materials used in the production of automobiles come in direct competition with those needed for armament purposes. Consequently, a curtailment of automobile production in 1941 would not be surprising.

ENLISTMENT OF BRAINS

Viscount Samuel in The London Spectator. The great part that has been played by Britain in the world's history is due, plainly enough, to geographical position, climate and resources, combined with the character of the people—their energy and tenacity, honesty and humanity. But those qualities are not enough. The British are now faced by another nation—intelligent, painstaking, brave, violent and ruthless, and twice as numerous. Britain has to gather to her aid the men of her Commonwealth and the resources of her Empire. Even that will not suffice. In this hard competition, covering the whole field of industry and commerce, diplomacy and war, she must make full use of her brains.

Our weakness has been there. In the development of national education, at every stage Germany has been ahead of us. General and compulsory education, the extensions of the school age, the provision of secondary and technical schools, the development of physical training—in all these things the Germans have been pioneers and we have come lingering after. The tone of our national life had been set by a "governing class" not remarkable for putting a high value on keen intelligence or scientific training. The system of classical education, dating from the Renaissance, had left the greater part of our thinkers and writers, our ministers, members of Parliament, civil servants, quite ignorant of science and all it means; regarding that ignorance even as something distinguished and honorable. In Germany it was otherwise. If Germany had not spoilt herself by her persistent militarism it would have gone hard with Britain long since.

Bruce Hutchison

SOME JOLLY NEWS

WHILE YOU, out in Victoria, are playing golf or playing in the garden, we can only play with figures, here in Ottawa. The great indoor sport is trying to figure out how much the war is costing and the only conclusion that I can come to, having no knowledge of mathematics and no adding machine, is that the war is costing quite a lot, more than in most parts of the British Empire but not nearly as much as in Britain itself.

This may surprise some people. There is a general notion abroad, and recently flourished by the opposition in Parliament, that Canada is spending less than the other Dominions on the war—less certainly than Australia. This is not true. Canada is spending more in proportion to its total income than is Australia, New Zealand or South Africa.

What we are spending in Canada is best understood in terms of work and energy which, after all, are the important things, money being only a symbol of them, a book-keeping entry.

HALF THE DAY

THE LATEST BRITISH figures show that Britain will soon be spending close to 60 per cent of its total income on war alone. Germany is spending about the same. This means that out of the average working day in Britain four hours and 45 minutes are spent on war production in one way or another. When the British worker goes to bed at night he has spent less than half his day producing things he can use. Most of the day has been used in fighting the war and producing things he cannot use. The German worker goes to bed with the same knowledge.

The Canadian worker will soon go to bed having labored two hours and 57 minutes for the war, or 60 per cent of the British worker's contribution.

The American worker at present contributes about 30 minutes a day to the defence programme, which includes aid to Britain. When the programme gets into full stride by midsummer, the American worker will be giving an hour a day to defence. The United States has so many workers and machines, however, that total American war production, on an hour a day, will almost equal British production on four and three-quarters hour a day. But even that will not be enough. Before the enemies of Hitler can outstrip his war production sufficiently for the job that Mr. Churchill wants to finish, the United States should be working at least two hours a day on armaments.

WHEN YOU GO TO BED

BUT TO COME back to our Canadian war expenditures in comparison with those of the British Commonwealth in general. A bulletin just issued by the Royal Institute of International Affairs, London, shows that out of their total income the various British nations spend the following proportion on war: Britain, 50 per cent; Canada, 22 per cent; Australia, 16 per cent; South Africa, 16 per cent; New Zealand 15 per cent.

These figures have all gone up since the bulletin was issued. Britain, for example, is spending 60 per cent on war now. But the relative position of the Commonwealth countries probably remains almost unchanged. Canada will spend about 37 per cent of its income this year on the war as against Britain's 60 per cent.

On all forms of government, including the war, the various Commonwealth nations, are shown by the institute to be spending the following percentage of their national income: Britain, 61 per cent; Canada, 44 per cent; Australia, 35 per cent; South Africa, 33 per cent; New Zealand, 32 per cent. Since the bulletin was published all the figures have gone up, but probably retain their general relationship.

Canada, for example, will spend about 57 per cent of its national income this year on government of all kinds, including the war. When you go to bed tonight reflect that you have worked 273 minutes and 36 seconds for the government that day. This is something over four and a half hours, but my arithmetic is not equal to it. All I know is that the government will need still more of your time before this war is finished.

THEY SEE IT COMING

THERE MUST BE, in Germany, large numbers of clear-sighted people who have a pretty shrewd idea of how Hitler's attempt at world conquest will end. Some of these are older people, who remember some of the larger lessons of the last war. Others are people of all age groups who can reason for themselves—see through the propaganda slogans—and apply some of the general lessons of history to the present situation in Germany and Europe.

One noted correspondent has recently told a story of a German executive sent to Germany to take over some business enterprise formerly run by Rumanian Jews. The business was finished with customary dispatch and German thoroughness. Then when the two were alone the German let down the mask for a moment or two.

"When this is over, what Europe will do to us is what we have done to you. Every man's hand will be against every German. Germans will be hunted in every corner of the continent."

The above may be pure invention. The German who is supposed to have said those sentences may be an imaginary character as Rhett Butler in "Gone With the Wind." But even if he is, his words may be as true as those of the fictional cynic of the U.S. civil war.

In school they used to tell us that the law of action and reaction was equal and opposite. The poet declares that those who sow the wind reap whirlwinds. The New Testament states, as a law, that those who take the sword must perish by the sword.

Every new conquest which Germany makes brings closer the inevitable day of vengeance. The armies of Hitler are thinning themselves out. It used to be said that "it takes two Nazis to watch one Czech." That same principle applies everywhere.

Only the foolhardy will strike now at the German invaders, in the hour of their strength. But the time will come, when the tide of war has turned, when every dark corner in every town of every country over-run by the Nazis will be a death trap for the invaders. Napoleon found, in Russia, that it is sometimes very easy to get into countries but quite another thing to get out again, when all your lines of communication are cut.

JEWISH TRAGEDY

There were about 550,000 Jews in Germany proper when Hitler came to power. The Nazis now boast that the whole of the Reich has been purged of such people. The last trainloads rolled away last week from Vienna to the starvation internment camps of eastern Poland. Thus ends one chapter in one of the most appalling stories of the ages.

The strangest feature of the whole Nazi nightmare is that the Hitlerites have adopted, in a characteristically perverted form, something akin to the old Jewish doctrine of the chosen people. The Germans, the Nazis tell us, are the superior people of the whole world. They not only have the right to rule us lesser mortals, but will actually be conferring a benefit on us when they take over control of our destiny.

Back in 1936 I met a chap who had gone to Germany and fallen for some of this most transparent propaganda. He really believed that there might be something in this theory of superiority, but he made the fatal mistake of arguing that it all began with physical superiority.

The Olympic Games were just over, and it was as plain as a pikestaff then—as in the records of the prize ring—that as a physical specimen the Negro towers far above the white man. Someday somebody may conquer the world. But in my opinion it will never be conquered all at once or by force. The Nazi doctrine of German superiority makes it easy to start boys down the road to war. But it will never get those boys to world victory. And if by some miracle they could get there, they could not hold what they had won.

RETURN FOR HOSPITALITY

From Field
Once upon a time 13 years ago, a fellow-countryman of mine startled the world by flying across the Atlantic Ocean from New York to that capital of France which is now in the hands of the Germans. I can well remember the tributes of admiration which were paid to him by the inhabitants of every country in the civilized world.

I never thought, at that time, that I and others of his countrymen, many of whom spend much of their time in England, would be ashamed of his actions and feel it necessary to apologize to the people who gave him shelter in his time of need. I never thought to liken his behavior to that of the craven ex-King of the Belgians; and yet there is a shocking similarity in their actions; for Leopold, in his time of need, called on the British Empire for help and then deserted his Allies without warning when they were hard pressed.

The same thing is true of Lindbergh; for did he not, five years ago, seek sanctuary in that England to which today he would deny the help which all decent Americans wish to give? Shame on him; and on those delegates of the Republican Party who dared to suggest his name as a possible candidate for the Vice-Presidency of the United States.

MORE NAZI THREATS IN HOLLAND

BERLIN (AP)—Germany's
commissioner in the Netherlands,
Arthur Seyss-Inquart, in a speech in Amsterdam reported here today, warned Dutchmen that “we are going to strike Jews where we encounter them and whoever favors them must bear the consequences. The Jews are our enemies.”

He further proclaimed to Dutchmen that the German watchword is “With us or against us” and claimed the majority of Hollanders wanted to share the German destiny.

“That there is freedom of political activity in the Netherlands,” he asserted, “is evidenced by fisticuffs and broken windowpanes
because at least two political elements are necessary for such evidence.”

(Within the past few weeks strikes and riots have been reported from numerous points in the Netherlands, chiefly in north Holland, a province which includes the city of Amsterdam.
Numerous persons were executed or sent to prison for long terms for their parts in the disturbances.)

Col. C. W. Woodward Rebukes Critics

Canadian Industry and Labor Stand Solid in War Effort

Col. W. C. Woodward, executive assistant to the Minister of Munitions and Supply, warned Canadians today they will really know suffering before the war is over.

"I have heard it said that Canada is not war conscious like the Old Country. That is because you can only be aware of peril by suffering, but don't make any mistake because you are not suffering. You are going to. You will pay an awful price before it is over," Mr. Woodward said in a talk at a joint luncheon meeting of the Victoria Rotary Club and Chamber of Commerce.

CANADA'S WAR EFFORT

Col. Woodward recaptured for his audience the high spots of his trip to England, the torpedoing of the Western Prince, the London blitz and the voyage back to this continent on the new battleship King George V and wound up with a rebuke to the persons who unfairly criticized Canada's war effort.

"If there's anything wrong in the munitions and supply department you can blame the businessmen of Canada, not the politicians," he said, "because in that department you certainly have a businessman's government. There is no interference. Sure, there have been mistakes made. There are always little irritations and troubles cropping up. And there'll continue to be."

He appealed to everyone to get behind the government on the war effort. Criticism was good, so long as it was constructive, but it should not be thoughtless, carping criticism. The fall of France could be attributed to a species of civil war in which minorities were persistently breaking confidence in the governments and governments persecuted minorities. That must not happen in Canada.

Mr. Woodward dealt specifically with the Anson airplane problem relating how Britain had been unable to deliver the 1,600 fuselages and engines for the craft as she had planned and how the entire scheme had to be revamped to get them built on this continent.

The men chosen for "Federal Aircraft Ltd. are responsible men. No particular blame attaches to anyone in this matter. It is just one of the disappointments that happen in wartime."

Col. Woodward said that 18 months ago he would have said it was impossible for Canada to do some of the things she is doing today, for instance producing everything for the British Army but guns of the highest calibre. Canada had never before made anything but rifles.

"We should be proud of Canadian industry, and proud of Canadian labor for the work they are doing," he declared. He paid a particular compliment to labor for the lack of strikes, and the fact that there had not been one known case of industrial sabotage.

After the war, he said, Canada will be the third industrial nation of the world, and there was no need to worry now about the postwar problems.

"We haven't got time for that. The job is to win the war. When we have done that we will have proved ourselves capable of handling the problems that come afterwards."

In recounting the experiences of his trip to England, Col. Woodward revealed that while the passengers of the Western Prince were in lifeboats and the Nazi submarine came to the surface he had fears the Huns might try to capture Munitions Minister Howe and his party to take back as prisoners—and possibly would have done if they had known the minister was aboard.

He had the highest praise for the merchant crew for the way they went about their duties after

UNUSUAL HEROES

"If I had my way I'd make the merchant marine the fourth service. They are the unsung heroes of this war. Without them the Empire's lifeline would be broken in 48 hours."

Col. Woodward said the sight of the City of London after the December fire blitz beggared description.

"Watching the fire from my hotel roof my first reaction was a cold wave of hate, with which came a feeling of pity that this terrible destruction should be wrought just to satisfy the desires of those Huns."

"I don't call them German any longer. If you had seen planes sweeping down on small rural villages and machine-gunning women and children in the streets you'd never call them anything but Huns."

Col. Woodward's voice was choked with emotion when he told of the spirit of Britain's under the bombing.

"There's just no one in the world like them," he said. "I've criticized them before. I've called them slow and other things. But today I'm prouder to be of British stock than of anything I own in this world. You have to live amongst them to know their courage."

"Knowing their love of tradition it is a sad thing to see the places where history has been made turned into rubble, but they are taking it as part of the price they must pay for freedom."

He told of some instances of bombing and how casually listed so many men, women and children and so many undefined because they had been mangled beyond recognition.

LONDON DAMAGE ENORMOUS

Although the damage in London was enormous it was a fact that few vital industries had been destroyed, he said. The docks were still operating although only for the smaller vessels. Production had suffered barely 10 or 15 per cent. Industries that were hit resumed operations in amazingly short time.

Col. Woodward said he was positive Britain would soon solve the problem of the night bombers and make them just as vulnerable to attack as the day bombers. He was let in on some of the secret methods that were being worked out.

The colonel gave his impressions of the men he met in the course of his trip.

Here is the way they looked to him.

The King and Queen: They are working as hard, if not harder, than anyone in Britain. The King's steadfastness in spite of faith, the Queen's smile brings cheer to all.

Prime Minister Churchill: He is the reincarnation of the lives of all the great statesmen, sailors and soldiers that have gone before in building up the Empire—and he really smokes those cigars.

Lieutenant-General McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Corps: One of the top five or six soldiers in the Empire "who can think more ideas in five minutes than I could in five hours."

Mrs. McNaughton—a second mother to the troops.

"The Canadian Corps: You can be proud of them. They are in key positions and you'll hear wonderful things about them before many months have passed."

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett: His heart is still in Canada, and he's still a great Canadian.

Lord Beaverbrook: He still has as many secretaries as ever, still as many telephones, and he's still as rude as ever.

Lord Halifax: A simple, sincere and devout man with no "side." He won't sway thousands by his personality, but will command a deep respect and affection for Britain in the United States.

The King George VI: The most powerful fighting unit afloat in the world today.

Labor Council Aids Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — Dominion government decisions affecting labor have been reached largely after consultation with the National Labor Supply Council, Labor Minister McLarty told the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

Challenging charges made Monday by Angus MacInnis, C.C.F., Vancouver East, that there was unrest throughout Canada among labor organizations and working people, the minister said evidence to the contrary was supplied by the fact that "there is not a single strike in Canada today—not one."

Mr. McLarty said it was possible some of Canada's 12,500 employers might not co-operate properly with their workers, but he denied there was any lack of government-labor co-operation.

EVEN KEEL

He said the government had appointed the National Labor Supply Council to "endeavor to maintain on an even keel the relationship between industry and labor in this country."

Scope of the Industrial Disputes Investigation Act had been extended at the request of labor, he said.

Mr. McLarty described establishment of the National Labor Supply Council as "a unique experiment."

"For the first time in our history we brought together the three great union organizations of the country to sit around the same table — the Trades and Labor Congress, the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Catholic Federation of Workers," he said.

"In addition to that, for the first time in the history of the country, on an advisory council, industry and labor sat with their feet under the same table to deal with the problems which the war necessarily entails."

MOORE TO ACT

A number of other orders-in-council were passed at labor's request, the minister said. The Unemployment Insurance Act, which is expected to become effective at an early date, also was enacted "in order to meet the wishes of labor plus the desire to establish sound economic conditions in the postwar period."

"In other words, I do not see how the government could consult labor through the National Labor Supply Council to a greater degree than it has done," he said.

Mr. McLarty announced that Tom Moore, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, had been asked to become chairman of the national employment committee to assist the unemployment insurance commission in an advisory capacity. He said labor and industry would be represented equally on the committee.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Esquimalt United Church will hold a St. Patrick's social in the schoolroom on Friday evening at 7.30.

Amaranth Official Honored By Court

The meeting of Mizpah Court No. 2 Order of the Amaranth was held Tuesday evening in the Knights of Pythias Hall. Prior to the meeting a banquet was held in honor of Mrs. Florence J. Booker, Supreme Royal Matron from New Jersey, who was on her official visit to the court.

Mrs. Edith Neelands and Mrs. Nellie Kelly were in charge of the refreshments. The tables were prettily decorated with daffodils and violets. Mrs. Booker was accompanied on her visit by Mrs. Georgia Hill, Past Supreme Royal Matron.

After the meeting Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hill entertained the visitors and members at an informal party at their home on Selkirk Avenue. On Wednesday a luncheon was held in Terry's private dining-room. Mrs. Booker and Mrs. Hill left on the afternoon boat for Seattle. The Royal Club will hold its next meeting at Mrs. N. Kelly's, 1357 Esquimalt Road, Tuesday evening, March 18, at 7.30. Cards will be played at 8.30.

People in the News

'Call Them Blessed'

OPPOSITION LEADER HANSON described passage of the Lease-Lend Bill and approval by "the great president" of the United States as "an event of great magnitude and importance at this juncture of world affairs."

"To Britain as the head of our beleaguered Empire and to Canada and the other dominions which stand at her side as belligerents it may well be, as indeed I think it will be, a turning point in this war-distracted world," he said. "In any event its importance cannot be overestimated."

"We in Canada as good neighbors of the United States, along with our kinsfolk in Britain, should raise our voices in grateful acknowledgement of the effort of the President and his administration in pursuing the policy now adopted, and in the days to come, with the abundant assistance which will be forthcoming, we and generations yet unborn will raise our voices and call their names blessed."

'Fed Us, That's All'
G. W. LOEWI, 26-year-old Austrian member of the Royal Canadian Air Force, in Toronto, described a concentration camp in which he and his father had been imprisoned a few hours after the German annexation of Austria with five words: "They fed us, that's all."

Loewi and his father, Professor Otto Loewi, Nobel Prize winner in 1936 were brought to Canada through the efforts of Dr. C. H. Best of Toronto, co-discoverer with the late Sir Frederick Banting of insulin.

Following their release from the concentration camp, the Loewis fled to England then came to Canada. Prof Loewi went to New York University, where he now is engaged in research work, while his son stayed with Dr. Best for a while before joining the R.C.A.F. He says he is looking forward to the time when he will be sent overseas as a member of the R.C.A.F. to engage in battle with the men "who stole my country."

'Republic Will Survive'

MAYOR F. H. LAGUARDIA said in accepting an award for "outstanding service to the city of New York" that "there is no telling" to what the British aid bill may lead.

"There isn't a man in this room who can tell tonight what his assignment will be in a month, two months, six months or a year from tonight," he said.

"But one thing is certain, the republic will survive." The mayor received the annual gold medal of the Hundred Year Association, composed of New York firms and institutions which have been operating for a century or more.

Nazis Eye America

STATE SECRETARY CASGRAIN said in Montreal the Axis powers have organized an espionage and propaganda service in South America drawn from German and Italian residents.

"We tell ourselves we are far from the fields of battle and the ocean protects us by its great distances," said Mr. Casgrain. "Also there is no question of the Germans directing their thoughts toward America."

'Let's Do the Job'

COL. JAMES L. WALSH of New York, chairman of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, said in Cleveland passage of the Lease-Lend Bill means "we're going to close our ranks and do this job and keep the dirty Hun off our clean shores."

"I'm not enough of a lawyer to know whether we are at war or at peace, whether we are belligerent or benevolent," Col. Walsh said. "But I do know the cheapest thing to do is to get into it and wind it up and do the job."

'France Will Live'

GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE, leader of the Free French movement, thanked the United States for passage of the Lend-Lease Bill in a broadcast.

"In the name of the French nation, I thank the United States for the decision she has taken," he said.

"This decision means the United States has passed judgment, once and for all, that the tyranny of dictators constitutes the greatest danger and infamy which ever have menaced the world."

Those who believed the role of France in the war was terminated were "sadly mistaken," De Gaulle said.

"France will live, to the misfortune of those who believed in subjugation, in collaboration."

No Shell Shock In England

Dr. THOMAS PARRAN, surgeon-general of the United States, said in New York he believed the populace of the British Isles would suffer no permanent effect from continued Nazi bombings.

Member of a four-man U.S. mission that has returned from a study of civilian defence in Britain, Dr. Parran said there was no extensive shell shock there.

"Shell shock is escape from reality," he said. "In the war, men under bad conditions at the front returned home, away from the bombing scenes and danger, and they developed shell shock as an escape."

"In England there is no place on the island that may be counted safe from attack, hence there is no place for one to go to escape the reality. So they don't get shell shock. It is a remarkable development."

"It appears the women stand up to the bombing as well as, or even better than, men. I don't know of a medical answer to this fact."

For Christianity

CAPT. GEORGES D'ARGENLIEU, a member of General de Gaulle's imperial war council, said in Quebec his mission in Canada was to explain more fully the aims of the Free French movement.

Wearing the Cross of Lorraine—adopted emblem of Free Frenchmen—on his French naval officer's uniform, he said: "There is a religious personality beneath my uniform, but it is as an officer of the French navy that I speak." Pointing to the double-barred Cross of Lorraine on his lapel, Capt. D'Argenlieu added: "This cross stands opposite to the crooked swastika, and is symbolic of what France stands for—Christianity."

Explaining his mission, the hero of the drama of Dakar said he was sent to the Dominion above all as an "ambassador of unity."

Letters Forged

ERNEST GIBSON, chairman of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, said a check-up of a considerable portion of letters and postcards opposing the Lease-Lend Bill revealed 90 per cent bore forced or fictitious signatures.

"I have an idea that this is part of a deliberate scheme of fifth column propaganda directed by Nazi agents throughout this country," he stated in Kentucky.

Gibson said the next objective of the committee was for "all-out" production of armament for Great Britain and delivery through United States naval convoy, if necessary.

Strange Mix-up

MRS. JOAN HARRIS LYALL, native of Fleet, Hampshire, England, has learned her husband, whom she had come to Canada to join, had landed at a Scottish port in search of her. She is in Montreal.

Mrs. Lyall learned of her husband's whereabouts from press reports from London. The mix-up dates back to last fall when Lyall, a Montreal newspaperman, was involved in a mix-up with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps.

The couple, married in England about a year ago, were due to sail together for Canada, but an air-rail prevented Mrs. Lyall from reaching the boat in time.

After leaving hospital in Montreal, Lyall set out to rejoin his wife, and four months ago obtained a berth as an able seaman on a freighter which landed him in Scotland.

As soon as he landed, he wired his mother-in-law at Fleet, that "it will be a surprise for Joan."

Mrs. Lyall confessed it was a surprise, but not exactly the kind her husband had expected. She said she had no intention of complicating the situation further—she's going to remain right in Montreal until Lyall can get a boat back.

Battle for Freedom

SGT. AUGUST STRODYK, Dutch-Canadian serving with the R.C.A.F., said in a broadcast from Toronto, Netherlands-Canadians "faithful to the land of our adoption . . . go forward side by side with our Canadians to battle for freedom."

Strodyk, introduced by Dr. H. J. Cody, president of the University of Toronto, spoke in the series "Canadians All," produced by the CBC.

"We are ready to make what ever contribution may be required of us, even our property and lives, in defence of the British Empire which is fighting so valiant a battle for the upholding of democracy and the maintenance of the freedom we in Canada enjoy," Sgt. Strodyk said.

Dr. Cody in his introductory address said Netherlands in Canada "will maintain here their forefathers' love of freedom and loyalty of truth."

U.S. Wheat King To See Churchill

LONDON (CP)—The arrival in London of Thomas Campbell, Montana wheat farmer and a long-time friend of President Roosevelt, is causing speculation as to whether he is here to sell surplus United States wheat.

"I'm here unofficially," Mr. Campbell replied guardedly when he was asked the nature of his mission. "But, of course, I will see many persons, including Prime Minister Churchill."

He denied he was seeking to sell wheat to Britain, but when he was asked whether Britain could grow her own he replied he believed that would be too costly.

Mine Operators Reject Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—Bituminous coal operators of the United States today rejected union demands for a blanket $1-a-day wage increase, and proposed that the present two-year contract covering wages and employment conditions for 450,000 miners be extended another two years.

The United Mine Workers of America (U.M.W.) asked Tuesday for the wage boost, along with other changes, at the opening of the biennial joint conference of union and management representatives from the eight-state Appalachian region.

The present contract, expiring March 31, provides $6 a day for miners in northern fields, $5.60 in the south.

Saanich Hearing on Zoning Question

Saanich councillors, at their meeting this week, received a petition from W. A. Kettle and 56 other property owners in the Dean Heights area asking the council to zone the district to prevent any dwellings being built there without at least 800 square feet of floor area.

Talking at length on the matter, the council finally decided to call a public hearing on the question of zoning the whole of the southern portion of the municipality for dwellings of not less than 800 square feet of floor area, unless special permission of the zoning board is secured. Some of the districts in this area are already zoned this way. What is meant by the southern portion of the municipality is that area south of a rough line drawn west from Mount Douglas Park to Holland Avenue.

Municipal clerk Wilfred Greene was authorized to present a brief from Saanich at the forthcoming Public Utilities Commission Inquiry on the British Columbia Electric Railway Company power rates. Saanich will protest the injustice in rates for that municipality compared with those of the other Greater Victoria municipalities. It was announced at the meeting that the South Vancouver Island Dairywomen's Association and the Saanich Board of Trade would also present briefs at the hearing protesting Saanich treatment.

The council accepted an invitation to attend the divine service to mark the 50th anniversary of St. Mark's Church on April 20. W. C. Todd's appeal that the council rezone George Road for auto camps was turned down.

Frangrance of Russian leather is due to the oil used in tanning, obtained by dry distillation of birch bark.

SHAW WOULD FIRE BBC MANAGEMENT

LONDON (CP)—Alfred Duff Cooper, Minister of Information, told a questioner in the Commons the British Broadcasting Corporation had promised to reconsider the cases of artists banned from the air because they were associated with the recent left-wing People's Convention.

He said a number of BBC artists had attended the convention without any "reprehensible" motive. He emphasized that when artists take an active part in public agitations such as the People's Convention they must not expect the "privilege" of being employed by the BBC.

Bernard Shaw, the playwright, entered the controversy the case has aroused with a message today to the National Council for Civil Liberties in which he said: "The whole managing staff of the BBC should be sacked instantly. Daily we throw in the teeth of Germany and Italy the reproach that they abolished the right of public meetings and free speech. And this is the moment selected by the BBC to give the world an exhibition of British Nazism gone mad. . . . When shall we learn to liquidate our fools?"

55-YEAR RECORD
Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company reports 1940 was the greatest year of expansion in its 55-year history. Net income was $18,985,428, compared with $13,854,365 in 1939.

Why Use A "Sissy" Laxative?

Chronic constipation has to do with the colon or large intestine. Unless the large bowel is thoroughly emptied from time to time you become a victim of chronic constipation and poisoning of the system which may result in colitis or other serious disease.

Mild or "sissy" laxatives merely cause a movement of the bowels without effecting a thorough cleansing out of the colon or large bowel. For this reason you are misled into thinking that you are doing all you can to overcome a constipated and poisoned condition of the system. Those who know Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills appreciate the value of a real medicine which not only effects a thorough cleansing of the colon or large bowel but also arouses the liver and kidneys to activity in filtering poisons from the blood.

Once you have proven the merits of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you will never return to the use of "sissy" laxatives. Keep regular by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills once or twice a week.

Over 500 Enjoy Fun At Golf Week's Dance

"Post-mortems," that favorite pastime of the 19th hole, were forgotten last night as participants in the Empress Golf Week and other guests to the number of about 500 danced and dined in the Crystal Ballroom and enjoyed a floor show of metropolitan night club calibre.

The dinner dance was the mid-week highlight of the social functions arranged for the entertainment of the out-of-town visitors here for the golf week. And the glittering replicas of the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes which adorned the back of the orchestra stand reflected the international flavor of the gathering, which included many Americans. Spring flowers adorned every table, and in the ballroom foyer flowering shrubs and plants lent additional color to the gay scene.

SKILLED DANCERS

Frank and Lee, a comedy team of dancers, and Karen and Crockett, a sophisticated dance team, came from Hollywood for the occasion, and Robert Lindgren, a Victoria boy who is studying at the June Roper School in Vancouver, and Doreen Oswald, his charming young partner, also delighted the guests with their performance. Crockett and Karen, the latter in a graceful re-ruffled blue lace dress and parasol, appeared in three numbers, "Flirtation," "Kara Ball" and "Tea for Two," and later in the evening reappeared to dance "The Evening Star," "Begin the Beguine" and "Twelfth Street Rag." Karen wearing a black net frock with ruffled medallions for this group. Frank and Lee, the latter wearing a white evening gown with glittering red sequins, and later a typical Bowery costume, amused the audience with their numbers, including military tap, eccentric jitterbug dance, and musical comedy number.

Robert Lindgren danced a vivacious Russian solo, and later, with Doreen Oswald, the "Gitana Mazurka," in costume, both being enthusiastically applauded.

Under Professor Billy Tickle, the orchestra excelled itself in a program of the latest music, and after the home waltz, a number of such popular old favorites as "Soldiers of the Queen" preceded the national anthem.

Weddings

DEUCHARS—LINTON

The marriage was solemnized in St. John's Anglican Church, Duncan, on Saturday evening of Alice Nina, younger daughter of Mr. Wm. Linton, Goldstream, and the late Mrs. Linton, and Grant Deuchars, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. D. Deuchars, Glenora. Rev. H. T. Archbold conducted the ceremony.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. C. Linton, chose an afternoon frock of Alice blue, gathered in front and trimmed with beadwork at the neck. Her doll hat was in matching tone and she wore a corsage of Talisman roses and freesia. Mrs. Albert Cole, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing a dusky rose crepe frock, with black accessories and a corsage of pink carnations and blue hyacinths. Mr. Neil Deuchars supported his brother.

A reception was held at the I.O.O.F. Hall where Mrs. Deuchars Sr. received the guests. Yellow and white decorations were used throughout with the three-tier wedding cake adorning the bride's table. Mr. Dave Duncan proposed the toast to the bride.

The young couple left by car for Victoria and went to Vancouver on the midnight boat. They will reside at Glenora upon their return.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Mae Melghan, Mr. and Mrs. R. Hibberd, and Miss Vivian Blaine of Victoria, and Mr. C. Linton, Alberni.

WEBB—MELLINGS

The Manse, Duncan, was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday night when Rev. W. F. Burns united in marriage Margaret (Peggy), second daughter of Mrs. J. Mellings, Duncan, and the late John Mellings, and Trooper Bart F. Webb, 9th A.D., fourth son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Webb, Vancouver. In the absence of her mother through illness, the bride was given in marriage by Mrs. C. W. Dunne, and looked charming in a gown of midnight blue crepe, with matching accessories and corsage of pale pink carnations and white camellias. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss May Mellings, who wore a frock of sheer powder blue georgette, matching turban, and corsage of deep red carnations and white camellias. Trooper Jack Webb supported his brother.

After the ceremony a small reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Alexander Street, where the toast to the bride was proposed by Mrs. C. W. Dunne. After a short honeymoon the young couple will reside in Duncan, while the groom is stationed there.

Persians Buy Flat Bread From Open-air Shops

Flat loaves of bread can be found in any city of Iran. The Persians (or Iranians) prefer their bread in the form of thin sheets. Bakers place the bread in stacks in front of their bakeries, and the customer is able to have a close view of it, without any waxed paper between his eyes and the bread. Flies and other insects also are able to learn something about the bread.

Passing along the streets of Teheran, or any other city in Persia, a visitor sees that bakeries are not the only shops which display their wares outdoors. It is the custom for merchants to sit in the open air, waiting for customers. Often they call out to those who pass, and ask them to buy.

Teheran is capital and largest city. It has long streets which are devoted to stores and "bazaars."

Most homes in Teheran are of only one story, and have mud walls. They are flat-roofed. Some are plastered on the outside, and are painted pink or light blue.

Moving along the streets are four-footed beasts—camels, donkeys, horses. Teheran is in the path of an ancient caravan route which stretches from the Caspian sea to the Persian Gulf. This accounts for the presence of camels, which are nicknamed "ships of the desert."

When a Persian goes to the grocery, he is able to buy rice, dried beans, lettuce, onions, tomatoes and other vegetables. He may take his choice of many kinds of fruits—apples, peaches, grapes, melons, pomegranates. He can also purchase soap, matches, sugar, dried raisins and nuts. The grocery is open to the street. Here, again, the flies are able to feast!

Some streets in Teheran are no more than narrow, winding alleys, but in the northern part of town the streets and the buildings are newer and more modern. There are wide avenues lined with shade trees, and the homes are set in the midst of flower gardens. This is the section where princes, wealthy merchants and foreign diplomats live.

HOROSCOPE

Friday, March 14

Benefic aspects dominate today which should be most fortunate for the clergy and churches. General turning toward religious faiths is presaged by the stars. They promise today a development of interest in spiritual aspirations.

Under this sway members of the family should take a serious view of life and should co-operate in all plans relating to money. Inclination to spend a great deal foolishly should be overcome, for the future will prove how wise are they who safeguard their financial resources. This is an unlucky day for writing letters or signing contracts. It is not an auspicious date for making new friends. Girls need not rely on this day's romances, for they will be fleeting.

Temptation to speculate should be resisted at this time. Prosperity will inspire extravagant spending. Manufacturing is to reach great output by midsummer, and the seers prognosticate at least 10 years of intensive production. Even if the war should end suddenly, repair of the waste caused by world conflict assures protracted activity at top speed.

Educators will be deeply concerned regarding proper direction of students, as they prepare them for a world of change. Stress upon foundation principles will be urged by the far-seeing, who realize that thorough training in essentials is more important than instruction in purely cultural subjects. After the war the seers prophesy that a new era will offer strange conditions.

India may become more insistent than formerly in her demands for independence, and the stars seem to presage many concessions which help the people to demonstrate loyalty to Britain.

Again, changes in the British Cabinet are forecast. Death will remove men conspicuous in London. The United States will be practically a war partner now.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of prosperity. Business interests will succeed, as will love affairs, but treachery is indicated in what is near the heart.

Children born on this day may be of extraordinary mentality, gifted in the arts and staunch in character. They should be popular and successful.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am the wife of a school principal. He has a doctor's degree from Stanford University, which I helped him to get by working to put him through it. Not having a college education myself has given me an inferiority complex, and I am jealous to distraction of his pretty teachers and secretary. What can I do to keep in his class? I used to be mentally alert when I worked. Now I am bored, bored, bored with myself. Should I leave my husband before he does me for some one with a better education?

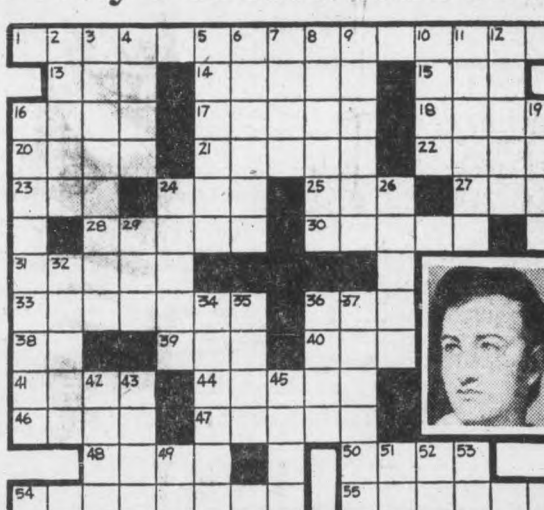

Answer—You are certainly a forward-looking woman if you contemplate leaving your husband to a divorce before he even intimates that he is tired of you and is thinking of leaving you for some one else. It is time enough for a wife to take such a desperate step as that when it is forced upon her and she has something to go upon besides her imaginings.

You are also borrowing trouble when you think that not having a college education is a matrimonial handicap. On the contrary, it is quite the other way about, for statistics show that girls who have never been to college have a far better chance of marrying than those who have. Nor has it ever been shown that his wife's education has anything to do with a husband being faithful or unfaithful to her.

As a matter of fact, most men like women who are intelligent without being brilliant; who have a fair education without belonging to the intelligentsia; who read the six best sellers but who are not bookworms; who can gossip pleasantly but who don't pontificate; who know enough to follow a man in what he is saying but who are not such authorities that they beat him in an argument and make him feel small. And, above all, they like a woman who looks up to them as oracles.

DOROTHY DIX.

Murray explained to the court that motorists with defective lights are given 48 hours to remedy the defects and if they do not do it in that time are prosecuted.

"That isn't British justice. I'll serve the one day in jail," said one of the motorists who was given a suspended sentence but was told he must pay the $2.50 court costs or serve one day in jail. The suspended sentence was given after he had told the magistrate he had had the defect remedied and had forwarded proof by mail to the police. Constable Murray said no such proof had been received by the police.

Two others pleaded guilty to having glaring headlights and were fined $10 and $250 costs. A third who said he had adjusted his lights himself was given a reduced fine of $2.50. One motorist who failed to have an approved signalling device on his truck was fined $5 and $2.50 costs.

Red Cross Notes

GARDEN CITY

Carey Road Red Cross unit met in Garden City United Church hall Tuesday forenoon. Mrs. W. P. Brown presided. A considerable amount of finished work was brought in and the day was spent in sewing for the refugees. A quantity of garments were cut out and distributed among the members for completion at home.

INVALID COMFORTS

A new Red Cross service for prisoners of war is the invalid comforts section. Recently it has dispatched by way of Geneva some 2,000 parcels for distribution to hospitals in France in which there are British prisoners of war. In addition, where the names of their hospitals are known, it has sent invalid comforts parcels to prisoners in France, Belgium and Norway. To individual prisoners in need of special diets and medicines special food and medical parcels have been addressed.

Parcels of invalid comforts and food are sent for distribution to all camps in Germany. They are addressed to the Senior British Officer or Camp Leader.

In these consignments special medicines or invalid foods which relatives of prisoners desire to send to them can be included, but it should be noted that these additions to the usual contents of parcels have to be passed by the censor.

Red Cross treasurer acknowledges the following amounts: Gorge Unit, additional, $3.15; "A Friend," Seattle, Wash., for prisoners of war parcels, $50; Metochin Unit, additional, $25; Empress Hotel, collecting box, $16.50; Press Royal Unit, additional, $10; Miss Dorothy Francis, proceeds from concert, $20.25; Victoria Horticultural Society, proceeds from auction, $7.75; Italian Society of Victoria, per J. ## Post-war Problems Women's Task, Says Princess

TORONTO (CP) — Princess Alice, wife of Canada's Governor-General, yesterday in an address to the Women's Canadian Club here said women must prepare to do their share in the "manifold tasks of reconstruction with which we are to be confronted at the end of the war."

"So many of us older people can remember the hopeless chaotic state of society and the wild extravagance that followed in the wake of the Armistice," she said. "All the high ideals for which men had been fighting and for which we women endured so much faded away in the great disillusionment. Ours was no land fit for heroes, but an exhausted, prostrate land at the mercy of anyone who chose to exploit it." Democracy in the world at that time received a severe setback.

Instead of rising to meet the new problems, people drifted and left the field clear for Communists, Nazis and Fascists, "who gained a large measure of success because they grappled in a definite manner with the very problems with which our democracies should have dealt," she continued.

Last night the Governor-General, Earl of Athlone, and Princess Alice dined with Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Albert Matthews. The vice-regal couple arrived here yesterday for a three-day visit.

MISCHA ELMAN CHERISHES AUER

Mischa Elman, noted violinist who visits the Royal Victoria Theatre on March 17, cherishes memories of the late Leopold Auer. The tonal genius who has withstood a generation of violin vicissitudes was the prize pupil of Auer, dean of teachers. In fact, it was Auer who provided the opportunities for Elman, the wonder-child, to burst upon the musical world with the force of an atom smasher.

The master to whom the greatest violinists came as to an oracle happened upon little Mischa while on a tour of inspection of Russia's music academies. Mischa will never forget his first private audition before the master. "I worried all night, preparing for my Judgment Day. As soon as I reached the professor's room I was seized by panic and my bow slipped from my nerveless hand to the floor."

Auer understood immediately. He gently placed his arm around the little boy's shoulders and led him to a table where he offered him tea. When he found the lad self-composed and relaxed, he asked him to play.

What Auer heard so delighted him that he not only awarded the 10-year-old boy a scholarship for the St. Petersburg Academy of Music, but placed the lad in the most advanced class under Auer's own personal tutelage.

To all this Elman today pays grateful acknowledgment.

"Auer's firm faith in me, his devotion and his readiness to make any sacrifice for me have had as much to do with my career as anything I have done."

Propose Loan

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Civic Finance Committee approved a proposal that the city share equally with the British Columbia government the cost of constructing a new $400,000 unit at the Vancouver General Hospital, providing that the provincial Legislature will grant permission for a $200,000 city loan for the purpose.

A special committee of the hospital board will go to Victoria shortly to request that the provincial government contribute $200,000 toward the proposed new unit and permit the City Council to borrow a similar amount and amortize the debt over five years.

U.S. INVESTIGATES JAN VALTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States immigration officials, it was learned today, have begun an investigation of Jan Valtin, author of the current best seller, "Out of the Night."

The author's own statements, a justice department official said, were the basis on which the first step in deportation proceedings was taken.

Valtin, who acknowledges the name he uses is a literary pseudonym, described in his book his alleged experiences first as a Communist agitator in his native Germany, then as a Gestapo (secret police) agent and later as an agitator who sought overthrow of the government in the United States. He told also of entering the country illegally and of reversing his belief in Communism.

Solely on the basis of statements made by Valtin in his book, an official said, there appeared to be several counts on which he could be deported. He listed these as illegal entry, criminal record and former membership in an organization which advocates overthrow of the government.

Under the alien registration law, Valtin could be deported as a former Communist even though he has since renounced the party. His admitted criminal record, the official pointed out, would preclude leniency under existing law.

WHEAT CROP DROPS

CANBERRA (AP)—Commonwealth statisticians estimated today the 1940-41 Australian wheat crop would be 83,970,000 bushels, the lowest in 22 years. This compares with last year's crop of 210,283,000 bushels and a 10-year average of 117,726,000 bushels.

The greatest decrease is expected to show in New South Wales and Victoria which have been particularly hard hit by a drought.

GERMANS NERVOUS, DO WITHOUT FOOD

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER

BERLIN (AP)—It's a man's world more than ever in Germany now. This was made plain on our return to Germany from a four-week vacation in the Swiss Alps.

At Basel my wife was unable to obtain a berth because all German sleepers now are reserved for men.

"During these war times men traveling through the night must arrive at their destination fully rested," was the explanation offered us.

On the train, we noticed the look of surprise on fellow passengers when they saw our tanned faces. Other travelers were for the most part pale and it seemed to us that they, as belligerents, were far more nervous than the neutral Swiss.

One stock question asked by virtually everybody who learned we had come from Switzerland was: "How's the food over there?"

One who asked this question immediately added: "I really need not ask, for I see how well fed and healthy you look."

We re-entered Germany on one of those monthly one-dish Sundays—when all Germany eats only a one-course dinner.

We saw many trains of coal and lumber rolling in the direction of Italy.

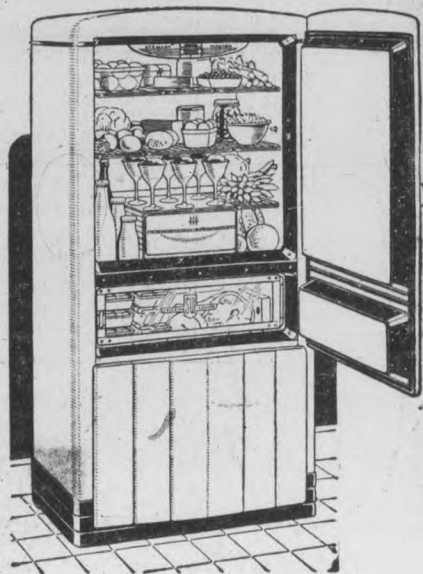

One of the most interesting sights along the route was a big flotilla of barrage balloons, like those Great Britain uses, hovering over a large industrial plant.

A shadow almost a million miles into space is cast by the earth, yet the moon is the only body ever seen eclipsed by it.

Most Important Purchase Is Coat

Give a little thought, fair lady, to the purchase of your new spring coat. Rushing out helter skelter and buying something that you're not sure you like, will leave you in a sad state of affairs, and it won't help your budget either.

Decide first which type coat look best on you, that really emphasizes the best points of your figure, and that meets your wardrobe needs most satisfactorily.

If you're the sports type and wear sports togs more than anything else, don't, in a fever of excitement, rush out and buy too dressy a coat unless you can afford to buy all the trimmings. Your best bet is the classic Shetland reefer, the fashion perennial that is as casually correct as sports clothes as it is with tailored styles.

In fact, we think every wardrobe should include a reefer. If you love real sports coats, you'll find knockouts in your local stores. In swagger, fitted and wrap styles, they're a big collection of them waiting for you.

However, if you're the feminine type or have decided to go feminine this spring, then the new dressmaker coats are for you.

Having just toured the local shops, we want to say here and now, that they're beauties.

'Soft' Tailoring, Neckline Interest New Features in Spring Coats, Suits

Because they are so new, so figure-flattering (and well nigh irresistible), we'll do a little fashion forecasting and say that the majority of women will want both a new coat and suit this spring. And with the "costume look" so important, we say you'll really need them for a well-rounded wardrobe. Never before have spring coats and suits been so quietly chic, so downright figure-flattering and so wonderfully wearable. Without a doubt, "soft" is the word for them in tailoring, fabric and detail. Their silhouette and necklines are new as new can be and tell a most important story.

First, newest and smartest is the "shirt collar" neckline which, as the name implies, is "open shirt" revers that are adaptations of the beloved classic shirt-waist blouse worn casually with the top button opened. Instead of being pressed flat as lapels of other seasons, the new "shirt collar" neckline is unpressed and stands up a bit in natural fold-back style similar to a shirt collar. Young, becoming and ever so new, these so-called "shirtwaist coats" are slated for spring success.

'LEAN HIP' SILHOUETTE

You'll be hearing lots of smart talk about that "lean hip" silhouette in spring coats. This is achieved by introducing the soft fullness above or below (or above and below) the waistline. Or by setting the waistline nearer the top of the hipbone, giving it some leeway instead of pulling it in tight. Just how this is worked out depends for the most part on the type of coat. For instance, a fleece greatcoat features deep folds of fullness above and below the belt. Tailored coats in tweeds go in for a box fold that supplies that easy drape through the shoulder blades down to the waistline. Very "soft" dressmaker coats achieve that "lean hip" silhouette by inset belts with fine gathers above and below the waist, minimizing the hips in a surprising way. Bodice tucks, soft blousing detail and circular tuckings are also noted. To further that elongated look, dressmaker coats also take to long, narrow, slender revers to slenderize and lengthen their body lines.

Most important of all, our Canadian designers have created coats that are flattering to every type figure. The reefer retains its fashion lead and we noted stunning dressmaker and classic types for spring, 1941. The one or two-button twill or crepe reefer with braid or satin binding is elegant in its simplicity and by far the most important. The more tailored type reefers feature belted backs, bloused backs. However, all the new spring reefers show that easy fit through the waist and nicely flared skirts. The tie-front coat with easy bodice lines in both tailored and dressy fabrics is one that is universally figure-flattering.

TWO-PIECE EFFECT IMPORTANT

Young and very smart is the basque silhouette coat with that "two-piece" look achieved by a long fitted bodice with trapunto or tucked detail and skirt which flares below the hipline from its lowered waistline. The trumpet silhouette coat, the ultimate in ladylike chic, is best developed by inset godets and pleated hem lines with the easy gradual flare at the hemline tremendously flattering.

While fitted coats lead the spring fashion parade, we noted some very smart box coats. Easy shoulders, slimmer, straighter body lines and trapunto trims, stitching and tucking detail mark them definitely 1941. Even in swagger coats back fullness is restrained with swing or pleated backs falling in soft, straight folds. Navy and black lead the color choice with great interest noted in the brown family, especially medium brown, toast and beige tones. Medium blues are also popular.

'SOFT' SUITS LEAD

With springtime just around the corner, the eyes of the feminine world are focused on suits, suits, suits. Voted top by the Canadian woman as the smartest fashion "uniform," they lead for wearability, chic, flattery. For spring, 1941, all of the suits are "softly" tailored and we do mean all of them, including the fashion perennial, the so-called "man-tailored" suit. Of major importance for spring, the latter is ever so much "softer" in line, fabric and detail. Jackets are longer, easily fitted with cleverly-tucked waistlines that give a nipped-in "curved" effect and they're amazingly slenderizing to hiplines.

Pinks, blues, yellows and greens. These are the colors spring plaids borrow from the flowers for the newest sports ensembles.

Although their shawl revers are adapted from a man's dinner jacket, they are smaller, softly rolled and not pressed flat as formerly. Shining satin or corded braid outlines revers, jacket fronts, cuffs and pockets, adding that elegant feminine look. Skirts are softer, featuring all-around slim flares, new high kick pleats or smart box pleats. Also noted in beautiful soft striped worsteds, these 1941 main-tailored suits definitely have that "grand lady" look.

As for dressmaker suits, there's a whole wonderful collection of them from which to choose and each is more attractive than the next. The longer easily-fitted jacket (25 to 27 inches) is noted as particularly popular, although the shorter fitted jacket is newer and very figure-flattering. Necklines on all these jackets show tiny revers, are collarless and of course many stress the "shirt collar" neckline which is exactly the same as those we told you about, in the new spring coats in preceding paragraphs.

Shoulders are less broad, less exaggerated and softer through the use of yokes, tucks, shirings. Other dressmaker details noted in smooth pockets, slim simple sleeves, crisp back pleats for a peplum effect on jackets. Spic and span pique or eyelet touches at necklines and cuffs add the fresh note to these pretty dressmaker suits. "Jeweler's" buttons, expensively carved gold or silver-color metal or stone-studded types lend added fashion news and elegance. Interesting to note is that many of these dressmaker suits come complete with their own specially-designed blouses, which of course are detachable. Navy leads with black a close second, although the new soft beige and cocoa tones and the misty pastels are refreshingly new and different looking.

Be Smart . . .

If you are not slim-hipped, don't try to get into a slim, straight skirt—no matter who says you should or who else does. You'll find skirts that are slightly full or otherwise cut to conceal hipiness.

Don't buy a slit-skirted, peek-a-hoo waisted, siren dinner dress unless you are sure that you will look your best and feel yourself in it.

Don't buy a "mad" hat if you suspect that you aren't quite daring enough to carry it off. Don't wear any kind of make-up which seems unsuitable against the background of your daily doings—no matter how many people, posed against that same type of background, do wear it.

In other words, without striving to be too, too different, you'll be an individual—rather than just one of the mob.

Photographed here are two important spring fashions. Left: The fitted, feminine spring coat in crown tested spun rayon and wool twill. Right: The new longer jacket main-tailored suit in crown tested spun rayon and wool twill. Note the satin-bound revers, link button closing.

SPRING COATS

The "soft" tailored type for spring . . . more exciting than ever . . . the silhouette is slimmer . . . fabrics softer . . . tailoring smooth . . . and a wealth of detail in tucks, inset back belts, lingerie and satin-bound trims. Wonderfully chic and charming to wear.

Spring Millinery Gives First Place to Flattery

Sweeping brims for spring. Ribbon, strongly featured in Lilly Dache's midseason collection, is used in rich maize, purple and white stripes sewn together to make an entire hat with its wide flared brim and towering crown.

You Can Be Different

You can refuse to wear what "they" are doing, do your hair as "they" are doing it, use the same slang "they" use over and over again—and yet be a very chic woman.

You can decide that a pompadour is unbefitting to you, that light nail polish is more becoming to your hands than dark shades, that skirts with fullness do more for your figure than slim ones—and still not look like a has-been.

You can have a little courage about your appearance—that's what. And you won't even have to feel that you are a complete oddity. A great many more beautiful women than you suspect have been and still are refusing to follow like sheep every seasonal fashion and beauty whim, unless it is flattering to them.

Flower Trims Full Blown, Veils Are Glamorous, Color Interest Extravagant

This season's millinery has caught the spirit of spring, in a burst of flowered beauty and romantic loveliness. Tiny hats that perch over one-eye, are loaded down with colorful oversize blooms, such as cabbage roses, massed lilacs, or narcissus, with a single big flower nestled in the centre.

GAY NINETIES 'HAT PIN' SAILORS

Narrow brim, level-disc sailors, in milan, cellophane or lacquered straws, wear twin hat pins crossed in front, with jeweled heads, or great big bright-colored knobs of cord or feathers. Clouds of maline veiling add a touch of romance to these Gay Nineties revivals.

Little straw pads, with draped bandeaux backs, are wisps of hats that tilt over the forehead, and use flowers, wings or clustered bows for trimming excitement.

Shiny straw bonnets, in fine or rough weaves, have off-the-face brims, and tuck a flower under the brim edge, at the hairline; or spread a garland of flowers across the back, at the nape of the neck.

Miniature toques and tricornes, not content with flower trimming, are entirely covered with flower petals, or blanketed with lily of the valley. Many of these add a single rose, posed centre front, as a focal point of interest.

SOUTH AMERICAN INFLUENCE

There is a wealth of color in so much flowered freshness, whether of dark or pastel backgrounds, and even bright foundations serve as a foil for flowered contrast, in tropic colorings and exotic blooms.

The South American influence adds a dash of spice and flavor to spring hat offerings. Sombreros are of first importance, with big fenced brims; and draped bands or coil caps, in vivid printed crepe or rayon jersey. Turbans also interpret the Latin feeling, with high-piled front drapes, halo brims like open fans, and eye-impelling, gorgeous color running riot through it all.

HATS GO PATRIOTIC

The sailor lads have done their bit for jaunty spring hats in beret silhouettes borrowed from the navy. The army, the air force and the marines have also been pressed into service, and their embroidered emblems add a flip to many saucy little suit hats, worn bravely, in the first spring breeze.

It's a gay spring, that will go to your head delightfully in hats brimming over with fun and flattery.

Vivid Colors Are Seen in New Casual Coats for Springtime

Like color? Like casual coats? Then you'll be happy as a lark about the coats fashion designers have created for you this spring. Color, color and more color tell their story with casual and sports coats headed for their brightest and biggest season ever. Keen interest is noted in vivid solids in fleece and angora coats designed to be worn gaily over simple tailored dresses as well as bright country sports clothes. Or if you prefer pastels, there's a whole rainbow of them from which to choose with news in yellow and lilac tones. Camel hair and creamy cocoa browns are slated for tremendous popularity.

as a fashion winner. Featuring smooth easy shoulders, inverted unpressed pleats in back, handsome wide revers and new hip patch pockets, this new version of the Hollywood wrap coat is forecast for tremendous prominence because of its easy wearability and casual correctness. The perennial popular reefer in single-breasted and two-button double-breasted style adds new notes in belted backs, inverted back pleats, insert back belts. They also show easier fit through the waistline, although they still retain their flattering flared skirts. Box coats that top suits so comfortably and smartly are practically new, looking with straighter, crispier back lines, slim or bell sleeves, easy-fitting armholes and smooth natural shoulders.

Sweeping, off-face brim in flattering pompadour style, in crisp, lacy straw with veil trim for your new spring bonnet.

In the Hawaiian spirit, Lilly Dache used a lot of red and white tropical flowers to trim a turban of white felt. From Lilly Dache's midseason collection.

Gelatin manufacturers say that glue may contain gelatin, but gelatin never contains glue; they are made by different processes.

Accessories for Spring Have Wide Color Range

Spring accessories are impartial in their love of color. There's just about every shade ready to delight the eye and quicken the pulse for spring. Blue and pink have an ombre scope, ranging from the merest tint to the brightest intensity. Yellow is a strong favorite, in citrus tones, sunny gayety or purest gold. Purple shadings are cool and lovely in lavender and lilac nuances, and full of vitality in royal accents for prints and pastels. Wine shades flow richly through the spring accessory story, and are heady mixed with soft beige.

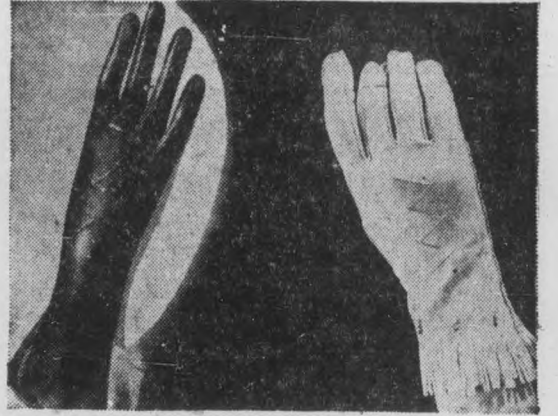

Gloves for spring have the color situation well in hand, with downy soft finish sueded rayons bringing the full spectrum to glove wardrobes, at a moderate cost.

Flower garden colors come to life in full blown spray pins that bring spring to suit lapels, and strike sparks from realistic looking faceted gems.

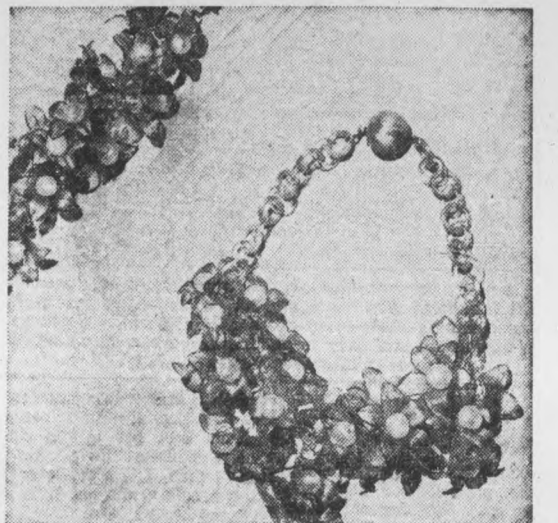

Suit pockets fairly demand a troop of gay hankies for color excitement. Sheer white linens offer hand painted posies that look ready to pick. Clip cord borders either match or contrast, prints go completely riotous, and white or pastels take to spoke stitching, drawn work, appliques and embroidery.

Handbag fashions are nothing if not versatile. Silhouettes are cheerfully small or large, trim or tricky to suit all tastes, and definitely color-conscious. Black or navy may appear conservative at first glance, but the inside story will probably reveal a surprise bright lining.

Any way you look at it, color carries the flag for an exciting, accessory-minded spring. And

Two new spring gloves. Left: Red and blue cabretta glove, as Canadian as the navy, with trim bright red wall and flared cuff. Right: Western-inspired glove with cowboy fringe and multi-colored Indian beading.

Spring-like "Bermuda Lily" design in a matching necklace and bracelet set of pearlized pastel flowers to wear with your spring outfit, the flag itself accounts for considerable colorfulness—in brave eagles, braid chevrons, and a red, white and blue accents that share their glory with shiny gold galaxy of bright stars.

Glen plaids take on a decidedly different look for spring with news in their colorings and size of their plaids. In smooth-faced flannel-like worsteds these new glen plaids are softly blended yet bright so that they can be worn smartly for sports or tailored daytime chic. Striped woollens as well as men's wear worsteds are also noted important for spring. As for style, these new sports and casual coats depend on line for individuality. # Originality Personifies Newest Springtime Dresses

Pretty petticoat fashion for spring 1941. In a gay flower-fresh print, the dress features fitted midriff accented with a big contrasting carnation. Made of Crown tested printed rayon crepe with rayon taffeta petticoat, this is a perfect "Sunday best" spring dress.

'Chic' Means Perfection

One flaw can spoil an otherwise perfect picture of chic. The truly smart woman never is haphazard about a single detail of good grooming.

For example, she will never: Let the supply of stockings get down to one pair so that, some fine morning, it becomes necessary to wear a stocking with a run in it while shopping for some new ones.

Try to make her finger wave do just one more day. She knows that no costume, however becoming, can make up for hair that isn't soft and shining with cleanliness and neatly coiffed.

The United States normally produces about one-tenth of the world's annual wool clip.

One Tiny Flaw Can Spoil It...

Don't assume that because your knees are under the table that nobody in the restaurant can see if you have a shoe off to rest a foot or that your dress has slid up above your knees.

Don't constantly fuss with your clothes, jewelry or hair. Don't greet anybody, even another woman, with an apology for your appearance or a complaint about the state of your health.

Don't monopolize a half-hour conversation with a monologue about your diet, your children or any other topic likely to bore others.

Don't gossip indiscriminately

Fluid Shoulders, Lowered Waistlines and Windblown Front Interest Are New

Spring is in the air and so Canada's favorite spring color, navy, has returned to greet us in a newer, nautical guise. Brightened up with brass buttons, gold braid and other maritime trims and dramatized with patriotic emblems and insignia, navy also features embroidered sleeves or pockets.

We've been on a tour through the shops, and never has any spring offered such a wealth of captivating frocks which show the three most important fashion trends of the season: The fluid shoulder line, lowered waistline, and wind-blown front interest. First, our shoulders will have a gentle slope this season, more feminine and with less bulk with padding set lower than in the triangular silhouette of past years. Second, lowered waistlines with dipped hip interest are new and have that important two-piece look in the full skirt flaring away below the molded long line above. Third, wind-blown front interest is shown in draped front skirt detail, soft front fullness at the waistlines, softly tied bows.

JACKET DRESS FAVORED

Jacket dresses abound, those versatile costumes which are a herald of spring beneath our coats while it is still chilly, and have the well dressed look of a suit later when the warm weather comes. There are tailored styles in navy blue with maritime trims and sailor collars of fluted or embroidered white pique or starched lace, as well as printed jacket dresses in light or dark colors, many with shirred detail, velvet collars, pique or faille trims.

PURPLE PRINTS NEW

In prints, multicolor patterns in tiny or spaced designs are everywhere: bowknots, polka dots, and small neat designs in one or many colors. There are also many Bayadere designs, those interesting print types arranged in stripes. Purple is a new color of fashion prominence in prints and a costume may easily be assembled from the many accessories available in purple tones this season. Navy and grey ground prints are also very popular, both of which may be ensembled with accessories in purple, red tones, navy and spring's smart bright colors.

FILLED LINGERIE TRIMS

Fashion brings the light to dark dresses in lingerie styles with frosting white trims, jabots, vestees, and two new collar types: the very new, very large yoke collars and sailor types, as well as narrow dainty versions. These are seen in embroidered organdie, faille, eyelet embroidered batiste, starched white lace and spanking white pique, often with ruffles of upholstery size.

There is nothing more practical than a "basic" dress such as these where trims may be removed and others substituted to suit our mood. They are perfect "desk-to-dinner" types. And we must not forget to mention the accessory dresses which come with two belts, one dressy, and one tailored... to each of which accessories may be keyed.

LOWERED WAISTLINE FOR JUNIORS

Paper taffeta dresses, and prints with taffeta petticoats in contrast are two new fashions for spring in junior sizes, in which we also find many bolero belts or sashes to which accessories may be keyed. In junior sizes we also find many print skirt styles with plain tops and smart lowered waistlines having the deceiving effect of the fashion-important two-piece look.

DRESSES DESIGNED TO FLATTER LARGER FIGURES

For those of us who require larger sizes there are many distinctive styles in this spring's crop of fashions which were specially designed for the mature figure, every line cleverly intended to give a slenderizing effect. For instance, the redingote dress skillfully giving the impression of a two-piece ensemble with its contrasting panel down the front. Also the smart new bloused back silhouette with its fulness above the waistline, giving a slender line to the hips. This slim effect below the waist is also achieved in the popular dress with bolero jackets.

Versatility Sounds Keynote of Spring Costume Ensembles

The Canadian woman, long a stickler for practicality plus chic, will be more than pleased with the new costume ensembles for spring, 1941. Beautifully designed, your fashion reporter has just seen and been conquered by them for spring. Take our word for it, they're perfect examples of double wearability and chic, and most important, they're priced to fit the average Canadian pocket-book.

Exceptionally smart is the full-length fitted wool coat over the print dress, with the coat picking up one of the colors of the print and frequently matching the ground of the print. Important coat types stress the bloused top through darts at the front bodice, self trapunto and braid trims, gathered belted backs, inset waistbands, small rounded revers or collarless necklines. Beautifully fitted with smooth shoulders and curved waistlines, many of these coats are so designed that they can be worn as a sheer wool dress alone, and they "ensemble" perfectly with other dresses.

Then there's the full length wool coat over a matching or contrasting crepe dress, such as the red coat over a navy or black dress or vice versa. Soft misty pastels in sheer wool coats over matching crepe dresses are very important, and we might add, very pretty and feminine. The "little suit" is tremendously popular in the costume ensemble group and consists of fitted wool jacket and matching wool skirt with silk bodice that may be detached.

Other smart "little suits" include the sheer wool dress with its own lined jacket, the printed or plain crepe dress with lined wool jacket. The currently popular South American influence is noted in the little bolero or boxy jacket atop dirndl-type dresses. For the tailored woman, we noted a particularly smart manish box coat of covert cloth or crisp woolen worn atop a matching or tailored print crepe dress.

CAPE COSTUME ENSEMBLES NEWEST

Newest and by far the most dramatic of the costume ensembles for spring, 1941, is the cape costume ensemble. Designed expressly for the woman who demands the new, the ultimate in chic, it consists of dressmaker tailored sheer wool jacket suit plus full-length cape in either matching or contrasting color. For added dash, the capes flaunt vivid plaid, polka dot or bright or matching linings. Wonderfully comfortable to wear, these capes feature slashes or straps for your arms so that they "hang" smartly from their smooth shoulders.

Color is given free reign in all costume ensembles. The beige to light brown family is new and spring blues follow in importance with soldier blue, and misty pastel blues noted. Ever popular navy and black with print combinations are headed for big success and crisp, smart and fresh-looking. Sharp tri-color combinations were also noted. Reading about these new costume ensembles is one thing, visit your local stores today and see them, they're one of the best bets for your spring wardrobe.

More than half the population of England has dark hair, though they are regarded as a fair-haired race.

Pretty Is—As Pretty Does...

Furthermore, believing to some degree in what grandmother believed wholeheartedly—that pretty is as pretty does—don't try to get by on looks alone.

Don't, for instance:

Talk loudly normally, swear frequently or practically screech as the party goes on and excitement increases.

Don't comb your hair at the luncheon, dinner or supper table. Don't—by flirtatious glances toward the next table or boisterous mannerisms embarrass your dancing partner or the young man who is going to pay your dinner check.

Someone Will Always Notice

Don't go to lunch with chipped nail polish, deluding yourself into believing that no one will notice, "just this once."

Don't tie knots in the shoulder

Little and big! Three-cornered and square. Pockets are big news in spring's fashion calendar this year. You'll find 'em tucked in most any ensemble.

POCKETS

Cotton Fabrics Are in Limelight for Spring Fashions

For a sunny vacation this blue cotton chambray jumper is highly recommended. The attractive striped top is of cotton poplin.

A bewitching evening dress of white cotton pique. The red apron-effect lends added charm, illustrates the vogue for large designs popular this season.

Printed Cottons Important for Day and Evening; Large Floral Prints Favored

About the time the chilly winds of late autumn blew their way down the Atlantic seaboard and the first snows of the year fell in the Middle West, the 1941 galax of cotton fashions made their first appearance down Florida way.

It was a gay assemblage of smarter, newer, more colorful cottons that overnight filled the fashion columnists and magazine editors with the conviction that cotton was destined to repeat on a grander scale in 1941 the triumphs it had enjoyed in 1940. Cotton, said the columnists, will be the major requisite in wardrobes for spring and summer.

AMERICA BECOMING COTTON CRAZY

"Printed cotton in the country for day and evening will be the important summer fabric. Butterflies printed on cotton are divine. They are in many cases enormous—sometimes black printed on bright blue or bottle green backgrounds. America is becoming cotton crazy," Magazine Editor Carmel Snow declared.

With the spring showings now in progress over the country confirming the advance forecasts of Mrs. Snow and the other fashion experts, it's not amiss to look at the cottons which will be popular and fashionable this season.

PIQUES VERY IMPORTANT

Piques which became a national craze last year are destined for even greater successes this summer. Hawaiian and California flower prints in brilliant colors will be favorites on pique grounds. For beach and evening fashions the tremendous tropical flowers are good though many designers are using the small prints in reverse combinations. Twin prints in piques are achieving popularity for little sports frocks and play suits.

The trend to large flowers in cottons is also to be seen in the new cotton voiles. For summer the gigantic flower designs are being featured in chiffon effects on a chiffon finished voile in light and dark grounds for afternoon and evening dresses. The brilliant flowers appear to be hand-painted directly on the fabric. For those who desire to dress more conservatively there are sketchily drawn flowers in such combinations as pink or dark grey.

At least one house will identify which will withstand much rough handling, high temperatures and boiling water. For this reason cotton is the most practical fibre for garments which must keep their fresh, new appearance, even though subjected to frequent launderings.

Then, too, cottons are long-wearing. Cotton is the only fibre cotton dresses with the cotton plant this season, introducing a new cotton boll design printed on both piques and sheers such as voiles and batiste. The new design was taken from an original evening dress for the raw cotton industry's Maid of Cotton. The brown and white cotton bolls are laid on backgrounds of pastel blue, pink and green.

Swisses whose crisp coolness caused them to skyrocket in the fashion sky last year, were again featured at this season's resort showings of spectator sports and town-tailored dresses in solid colors. Demand for Swisses is increased this year due to the appearance of new novelty types. There are dresses of gingham Swiss with that crisp business look, embroidered effect Swisses for those who prefer something a little fancier, and flower garden pastels for the romantically inclined styles.

SOUTH AMERICAN TREND NOTED

Of particular importance this season is the effect of the South American influence on cottons. As Paris dressmakers continue virtually inactive, American designers have turned to South America for inspiration, with fashion artists spending months in Bolivia, Brazil, Argentina and other countries sketching typical designs in the bright colors popular among the Latin peoples. Inspired by the South American colors, gay embroideries are to be found on piques, batistes and voiles depicting voladores, llamas, and the Latin peasant folk.

POLKA DOTS POPULAR

In many showings of spring and summer cottons, the ever-present polka dot, magnified a dozen times, has been a feature. The immense dots are seen on a variety of grounds and in both prints and embroideries. Making their debut in this season's play suits, they are now being shown on every type of ground, including sports weaves and sheers for daytime and town wear.

This year as always, cottons in black and white with a touch of color added are headed for spring successes. For instance, in chambrays a black stripe in white is favored for the two-piece bathing suit which is trimmed with a bright color like emerald green in the form of bowknot appliques.

In gingham a black and white shepherd stripe is shown in contrast trim in red and white gingham, and in poplin the preference is for gigantic plaids in black and white on pastel grounds.

LARGE PLAIDS ARE NEW!

The fashion for gigantic plaids in dresses for afternoon and evening is reflected in the woven pattern cotton lawns for this summer. The plaids are carried out in clean colors such as royal blue and green in white or green and orange in white. The more conservative plaids in lawn go in for such color schemes as brown with red and white in gold and bottle green with red and white.

In every color and design cottons are being enthusiastically received for sports, for street, for afternoon and for evening. Today, daytime cottons are as fashionable as silks. Designed with soft bodices, tucked, flared or stitched pleated skirts, they are very figure-flattering. Strikingly smart are the ticking striped cottons, the soft pretty pastels, the dancing polka dotted cottons and the big splashy floral prints. Tuckings, s'irings, pleats and lingerie trims add to their fashion interest.

NAUTICAL INFLUENCE IMPORTANT

The nautical influence, currently popular trend, is perfect for cotton and particularly nice in sailor dresses for children and teen age girls. Braid trims, sailor collars and brass buttons sound the sailor note. And cotton is practical as it is fashionable. It's cool, easy to wear and care for, packs without a wrinkle, and keeps its crisp good looks after daylong wear. Naturally for playtime, cotton takes the lead. And evening cottons in both the romantic sheers and more sophisticated type cottons are headed for their biggest spring season ever. As the experts say, "America is becoming cotton crazy."

The Navy's in Town This Spring

About face . . . in navy! Riding the crest of the fashion seas, navy is the commander-in-chief of the spring style parade. Whether it's "nautical navy" or "pretty navy," it's the leading color for the Easter parade. From little navy dresses frosted with frilled white, to midshipman dresses with patriotic emblems and sailor collars, to jaunty gobs hats . . . fashion follows the fleet.

OFFICER'S BLUE NEW

Salute this new navy, you'll be hearing lots of smart talk about it come springtime. In tailored suits and coats, it's crisp as a salute and you've no idea until you've tried them on, what jacket suits and they're not overdone.

FEMINE NAVY FASHIONS TOO

Striking a happy medium, designers have created feminine navy fashions too. Particularly chic are the navy blue dressmaker reefers, the lingerie trimmed twill "dress" coats with graceful bell sleeves, softly tucked shoulders, gently flared skirts. "Soft" dressmaker navy suits beloved by smart Canadians every spring, hit the peak of their chic wearability. Fluid shoulders, longer easily fitted waists, slimly flared skirts and fresh lingerie trims are their most important fashion notes. Navy dresses in rayon crepe and rayon sheer are highlighted as fashion winners. Silhouettes include princess, the lowered waistline, the wind-blown front interest in skirts and the new "hoop" skirt silhouette achieved by circular corded trim on skirt lines.

Young, full of bright new design ideas. A variety of lengths, and the new, important soft shoulders.

those nautical emblems and stars and stripes motifs can do to your spirits. Suavely tailored, you'll see them on these fitted "officers' coats" and on the crisp

Navy Manoeuvres in Juvenile Spring Fashion Parade

Patriotic Emblems, Naval Insignia Buttons, Sailor Collars, Sailor Hats Seen

Ship ahoy! There's gobs of style in the new nautical fashions for youngsters this spring. Fresh, becoming and bright-eyed as the youngsters who'll wear them, Canadian Navy fashions will be first choice of fashionable boys and girls for the Easter parade. Embellished on coats, suits, dresses and hats will be dashing patriotic emblems such as naval insignia buttons, braid bound sailor collars, red, white and blue tri-color combinations and gold studded hats.

3-PIECE CAPE SUITS NEWEST

Without a doubt every boy and girl will want a navy blue sailor coat or suit for the Easter parade. Crisply tailored in shetland, wool serge, flannel and cheviot woollens, the coats feature double-breasted closings, flared skirts, shoulder epaulets with brass button accents, "service stripes" on sleeve cuffs as well as patriotic sleeve emblems. The young cadet coats with detachable shoulder-length capes are dashing as an officer's uniform and wearable as they are smart. As for suits, the newest is the three-piece suit with full-length cape and matching or contrasting color and they afford double wearability as they are smart alone or with cape.

The two-piece navy blue nautical suits are crisp as a salute and these flaunt patriotic emblems, too. Their fitted jackets set off with brass buttons and in some cases shoulder epaulets top crisply flared skirts and they're young as young can be. As we mentioned before, there are scores of nautical hats, sailors, berets and streamer bonnets designed to be worn with these sailor fashions. Though your fashion reporter has been stressing navy fashions for girls, there are identical styles for boys, too, who, come to think of it, have been wearing nautical togs for ever so many spring seasons. So we say it will be sailor maids and sailor boys that will catch all the compliments in the Easter parade.

LINGERIE TRIMMED FASHIONS FOR GIRLS

Even in the more feminine spring coats and suits, navy is still the leading color. Ever so pretty and crisp looking are the princess flared twill coats with dainty lingerie collars and cuffs. Tailored reefers in both single and double-breasted styles show snow-white pique revers and cuffs which are detachable. Pique trims also abound in the new little jacket suits for girls in button up revere, "shirt collar" or peterpan styles. For the sportier type coats, camel fleece in natural and nude shades are new and headed for popularity. Styling of these coats with less padded shoulders and natural shoulder lines is reminiscent of the belted back wrap-around styles so popular during the fall season. Then there are rich oatmeal tweeds, diagonal tweeds, jumbo pastel plaids in huge cross-bar patterns and small colorful checks. Covert is expected to be a topnotch coat favorite for 'teen-age girls this spring, with the new fitted silhouette leading. Reversible coats in new light donegal tweeds feature pastel cotton gabardine linings (showproof), and come complete with hat to match.

The old southwest has inspired a short vividly-colored bolero, that both big and little sister will welcome. Soft Indian moccasins are another southwestern inspiration. Jewelry with western and Indian design has always been popular, but this will be chosen over all other types. Impertinent catlin cowboys will ride on sister's coat lapel. She will pull her western scarf through a heavy designed ring. In every way she will welcome the western styles this spring.

COTTONS BIG FOR SPRING

In the limelight for school and "best," cottons are headed for their biggest spring season. One of the newest themes is the nautical trend, one which mothers and daughters both like. Featured are braid trimmed sailor collars, sailor ties, contrasting braid trims on full swirling circular skirts, and patriotic emblem motifs too. Spring 1941 sees a big revival of the regulation middie blouses and wool serge pleated skirts. The blouses set off with shipshape contrasting braid trims on jaunty sailor collars and sailor ties, are exact copies of those Mother used to wear when she was a little girl. Then there's the shirtmaker, and dressy type cottons. The former take on a new look with inset tucked bodices, convertible "shirt collars" full-flared or pleated skirts, novelty buttons and lingerie trims. Dressy types include the favorite princess, dirndl and suspender styles. Set off with smockings, bow sashes, rick-rack trim and lingerie cottons, they are perfect for "Sunday best." Bright color broadcloth, striped cottons, florals, pastels and striped and plain combinations are favored. Cotton pinafores, those marvelous dress savers that look picture-perfect are again highlighted for spring. Tailored and dressy styles are featured, the latter showing perky shoulder ruffles, back button closings and big bow tied back sashes. These are available in striped and solid color cottons. Many of them show the patriotic theme in flag color trim.

So pick cottons for your youngsters, not only because they're so fashionable but because, as every mother knows, they can stand hard wear and tear, they wash quickly, they don't shrink and they look fresh as new after repeated tubbings.

Western Fashions New for Girls

Western styles ride high in children's clothes this spring. The high school miss and her younger sister will welcome the casual styling that these new western-type clothes have. They'll like the novelty touches, such as fringe and nailhead decorations. Short flared skirts, with fringe bordered hems and pockets, especially appeal to the 'teen-age girl, because they'll make her feel dashing as a western belle. To wear with her skirt, she'll choose a gay plaid or checked wool shirt that is as western as a range-tanned cowboy. Bright, three-cornered fringed scarves add the final touch to these thoroughly western outfits.

CASUAL AND COMFORTABLE
Sports-loving western boys and girls have always preferred casually cut broadcloth shirts. Their eastern cousins have coralled this style as their own. With these shirts they wear saddle leather belts that you don't have to be a born westerner to appreciate.

Nautical fashions for brother and sister lead the spring parade. Braid-bound sailor collars and gold color naval insignia buttons strike patriotic note on this gabardine sailor suit and sailor jacket dress.

The old southwest has inspired a short vividly-colored bolero, that both big and little sister will welcome. Soft Indian moccasins are another southwestern inspiration. Jewelry with western and Indian design has always been popular, but this will be chosen over all other types. Impertinent catlin cowboys will ride on sister's coat lapel. She will pull her western scarf through a heavy designed ring. In every way she will welcome the western styles this spring.

Mix Or Match Jackets and Skirts

One of the first signs of spring are the mix-match jackets and skirts that all little girls look so well in, that all mothers appreciate for their wearability, practicality and smart good looks.

Glen plaids in soft glowing pastels are prime favorites for spring and their colorings are pretty as a desert sunset. Crisply tailored and designed just like Mother's, the jackets in the new longer length are easily fitted and feature the new "shirt collar" neckline that is newest and smartest for spring. Worn with matching flared, gored or pleated skirts, they make one of the nicest little outfits for your daughter's new wardrobe.

Identical styles are available for big and little sister and these mix-match jackets and skirts are perfect for early spring wear and under coats and later as jacket suits when the weather is warmer. Besides the glen plaids, there's a wonderful variety of pastels from which to choose including soft beige, light navy, dusty pink, aqua, navy and brown.

One of the beauties of these glen plaids and solid pastels is that the latter pick up the tones of the plaids so that your youngster can interchange them. For instance the glen plaid pastel jacket may be worn smartly with the solid pastel skirt and vice versa, thereby affording "four-way" wearability.

Get Stylish Hair-do Before a Hat

Time was when you bought the new hat first and then depended on your favorite coiffure expert to design a hair-do to set off the bonnet.

Now you get the coiffure (this spring it will be some version of a pompadour) before you start looking for hats. The reason is simple: Hat and hair stylists got together and discussed plans for spring before either group created anything. Only a strictly perverse person would be able to locate a hat which is all wrong with current hair styles, or achieve a coiffure with which no hat looks well.

The new order of hat and hair-do shopping is infinitely better, of course. It's smarter to have a coiffure that flatters you than to have one which flatters a hat but which makes you look too dreadful when you are hatless.

Both chic and interesting is a three-way coiffure, designed to be worn with three different types of hats and, in addition, to look well during hatless evening hours.

It starts out as a pompadour, with the hair brushed straight upward from the forehead. With this version, any one of the far back-on-the-head, strictly pompadour hats is excellent. In addition, on all except long-faced persons, this hair style is as becoming minus a hat as with one.

USE CURLS

With a little skilful combing, the pompadour can be transformed to set off perfectly one of the high turbans, worn far back on the head. A cluster of curls is arranged high above the forehead. The upturned roll at the back is retained. The curls may be pinned to the edge of the turban to hold them high.

The third style of the three-way coiffure lends itself to the ever-popular, conservative but charming, brimmed cloche. The curls at the front are softened slightly to keep them from becoming flat while under the hat. But sides and the roll at the back are brushed downward and only slightly backward from the face.

Incidentally, while looking at spring hats and coiffures, do a bit of experimenting with some of the new shades of makeup. The brownish red and brownish pink tones of rouge and lipstick are exciting and look well with suntanned as well as peaches-and-cream complexions.

Earl of Athlone
Endorses Campaign

OTTAWA (CP)—Services being rendered the armed forces at home and overseas by Canadian auxiliary organizations "signify to them the affection and thoughtfulness of the folks back home," the Governor-General said in a letter endorsing the Canadian war services fund campaign starting March 24.

A similar letter of endorsement was released from the office of Prime Minister King.

Lord Athlone endorsed the principle of the combined appeal, in which the Canadian Legion, Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus, Y.M.C.A., I.O.E. and the Y.W.C.A. will seek $5,500,000 to carry on their essential services among Canadian fighting men for the next 12 months.

"Princess Alice and I are glad to become patrons of the Canadian war services fund," His Excellency's letter read.

"We cannot emphasize too greatly the importance of providing pleasant recreation, healthy relaxation and comforts for our sailors, soldiers and airmen, and we are sure nothing contributes so much to their physical and spiritual wellbeing."

Mr. King's statement gave the government's "unqualified" approval to the co-operative appeal and expressed confidence in the warmth and generosity of the response which will be made.

Athlones in Toronto
OSHAWA (CP)—Canada's Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone, and Princess Alice, winding up a three-day visit to Toronto, inspected the plant of General Motors Company of Canada here today. The party was met by a war veterans' guard of honor and civic officials.

A visit to the plant's assembly lines preparing gun tractors and utility cars interested Princess Alice, who operated one of the presses, the largest in Canada.

Motorists were fined $25 in City Police Court today. One was fined $5 for not stopping when a police siren sounded, another the same for not obeying a red traffic light. One was fined $5 for making a U turn in the wrong place, four $2.50 each for parking violations.

Another, who was a sick man, was given a suspended sentence on the same charge.

Dr. E. A. Corbett of Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, is on a lecture tour throughout Canada, speaking in all the principal cities.

Through arrangements made by Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council he will be heard in Victoria next Tuesday evening at 8 in the Sir James Douglas School auditorium, when anyone interested will be welcomed.

Victoria fire department this morning extinguished a fire in the basement of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, corner of Broughton and Douglas Streets.

It is believed the fire was started by a cigarette butt or match being thrown down the street chute, covered by a steel grating, to the fire compartment. Damage was slight, although flames reached the ceiling of the floor and burned a hole in the floor of a small upstairs room. Main part of the church was not damaged.

Volumes of smoke made the fire look serious, attracting a crowd.

WINNIPEG POLICE FIGHT CHARGES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Members of the Winnipeg police commission, of which Mayor John Hughes is chairman, today prepared a report for submission to the City Council on charges made against the police department by Alderman John Petley.

Public hearing of the charges, which alleged police had subjected Frederick C. Hughes to brutal treatment during his arrest on a charge of drunkenness, ended last night.

Petley charged that Hughes, formerly of Edmonton, had been beaten "black and blue."

Mayor Queen termed the inquiry a farce, and said: "It is my personal opinion this commission has felt foolish sitting here to listen to charges for which there has not been a title of evidence."

VICHY (AP)—Efforts to repatriate hundreds of British subjects living in unoccupied France have failed, it was reported today, because of German refusal to guarantee safe conduct. It had been proposed a troopship accommodating 1,700 persons be used and the Italians were said to have agreed to her sailing. Some 600 British subjects had signified a desire to take the vessel.

Home Builders
Market Strong

The strongest home-builders market in the last 12 years at least was shown in an analysis of property sales in Victoria during February, compiled today by the city assessor-collector's department.

Last month 122 parcels found purchasers who paid a total of $174,913 for their properties.

The value of the monthly sales was exceeded in 1932 when 57 properties brought $308,603, but the number for the month in previous years was far below that of February 1941.

In addition to the sales, another 39 properties valued at $31,957 changed hands through transfers and eight more worth $22,755 through wills, making the total under new ownership during February $232,075.

Actual values were somewhat less than sales listed in January when 95 properties realized $176,907, but were well ahead of February, 1940, when 96 sales brought $154,500.

Officials of the assessor-collector's department reviewed the trend with satisfaction, seeing in the increased small sales a large number of potential houses to widen the basis of taxation in the city.

Talks on Etchings
At Crafts Meeting

Dry-point etching and etching by acid formed the subject of an interesting talk by Miss Margaret Manuel to members of the Vancouver Island Arts and Crafts Society in the clubrooms, Royal Bank Building, Fort and Cook Streets, last night.

John Kyle, president, was chairman. Miss Manuel showed several etchings of her own, together with etchings on copper plates and all the tools used in the process of etching.

The speaker alluded to some of the principal etchers of the day, such as D. Y. Cameron, David Strang and Muirhead Bone.

She showed lantern slides of the work of Whistler, Pennell, Brangwyn and other prominent etchers.

MCCARTHY GREETED BY ROOSEVELT

WASHINGTON (CP)—Hon. Leighton G. McCarthy, Canada's new minister to the United States, will make his first official call on his long-time friend, President Roosevelt, today.

The Toronto lawyer postponed a scheduled call on state secretary Cordell Hull until tomorrow because of Mr. Hull's appearance before the House of Representatives appropriations committee engaged with the President's estimate of $7,000,000,000 under the Aid-Britain Act.

Mr. McCarthy arrived in Washington from New York late yesterday. He was met by George T. Summerlin, chief of protocol of the state department, and officers of the Canadian legation, among them Hume Wrong, legation counsellor, and Merchant Mahoney, charge d'affaires during the illness of Hon. Loring Christie, the former minister.

Owing to the serious illness of Mr. Christie, who has obtained leave of absence and technically will remain a minister, U.S. authorities will receive Mr. McCarthy with the full status and authority of Canadian representative although he carries no credentials or letters of recall for his predecessor. Mr. McCarthy is in Washington as a member of the Canadian Privy Council.

Many Indian people of Vancouver Island are supporting the war savings drive to the fullest extent of their means. One of the largest pledges by an Indian was made by Miss F. Silver yesterday afternoon. Miss Silver, who resides on Craigflower Road in the Indian reserve, is shown signing a bank pledge for $480, the maximum amount that can be pledged in savings. She also purchased $20 in war savings certificates for her father. The pledge was made under the house-to-house canvassing division under the direction of Miss Sara Spencer. The canvasser who called on Miss Silver was Mrs. H. L. Rose.

Empress Golf

Four Victorians
Gain Semifinals

Four Victorians, Ted Colgate, C. L. McLaughlin, Jimmy Hogan and Gordon Verley remained in the running for the men's handicap championship of the Empress Hotel golf tournament at the conclusion of the quarterfinals at Oak Bay today. To the winner will go possession of the Sir Edward Beatty trophy.

Last remaining victors, L. Blondeau, Montreal, and L. A. Diether, Vancouver, went down to defeat before McLaughlin and Verley, respectively. Blondeau was beaten 3 and 2 and Diether 2 and 1.

Colgate, winner of the medal honors Monday, experienced his toughest match so far in winning from Alan Riches 1 up. Forced to give five strokes, Colgate was under pressure until the finish on the 18th green.

In the fourth match Hogan was victor over Rev. S. Ryall 6 and 4. Tomorrow's semifinals will match Colgate and McLaughlin, and Hogan and Verley.

Death Accidental

A coroner's jury, presided over by Dr. E. C. Hart, brought in a verdict of accidental death at an inquest this morning at Curry & Son Funeral Home into the death of Miss Alice Dunn, who died on March 6 from brain injuries sustained when struck by a car driven by William Taaffe on the night of January 3 at Cook and Quadra Streets.

Saanich Constables Cecil Pearce and Victor Smith said visibility was very poor at the time of the accident. It was 7 o'clock, dark and raining. Both women wore dark clothes, both had open umbrellas.

Ernest Bleathman, Saanich municipal mechanic, said he jacked the car up and tested the four-wheel mechanical brakes. The two front wheels would be spun when the brakes were jammed hard on. Left rear wheel dragged, the right locked. King bolts in the steering gear were loose.

Horace Gladding, mechanical superintendent of National Motors, said he had the wheels taken off the 1928-29 Ford and tested the brake linings. They were badly worn. If the car had been brought to him in that condition he would have recommended new brake shoes.

Taaffe said he was going south on Quadra at 25 miles an hour and when he came near the place at the intersection where bus passengers get off and on he slowed up. Suddenly two ladies stepped out from behind a car going in the opposite direction right into his path. He was only 10 feet away. He swerved hard to the right to try and avoid an accident. After striking the two, he said, he stopped his car within two car lengths. He said he had had his brakes tightened recently. He said the brakes were good enough to stop the car quite quickly. Taaffe said the car that passed him did not dim its lights.

The jury was composed of James Dinsmore, foreman; Frank

BENNY AND ALLEN
COME TO GRIPSSo Fred Allen got a good hold on Jack Benny's scalp lock and Jack Benny got a good, tight pincer grip on Fred Allen's nose —and what resulted is just about the funniest comedy of the year
—Paramount's "Love Thy Neighbor," which opens today at the Atlas Theatre.While the film is based on the by-now historic feud between the two comedians, nevertheless, there is ample provision made in the story for romance, pretty girls, hit tunes, delightful dancing and other first-rate ingredients of successful comedy musicals.
Stars Benny and Allen, two of the finest comedians who ever put laugh-stitches in anybody's
